

Chicago domination if cutback plan passes?

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

There is a real likelihood of increased Chicago domination of the legislature if the Illinois House "cutback amendment" is approved by voters Nov. 4, State Representatives Sam Wolf and Everett Steele said in the Press-Record conference room Friday afternoon.

They are shown in the photograph at the right, with Wolf seated at the left in the picture and Steele seated next to him. Patrick Quinn, who favors reducing the House from 177 to 118 members, is shown in the photograph at the left as he presented his views Friday afternoon at the newspaper. (Both Press-Record staff photos are by Pat Foley.)

The local legislators predicted "string bean" districts in the next redistricting, enabling Chicagoans to control about the same number of House seats as they do now, even with the overall size of the House decreased. Thin districts could stretch outward from Chicago to include suburban areas, they noted.

Severe problems could develop for Downstate Illinois, with Chicago capturing an ever-increasing volume of state funds, Rep. Steele said, commenting, "Chicago has not yet had to bite the bullet" on its school costs and is looking to the legislature to bail it out. Meanwhile, Granite Cityans have closed Washington, McKinley and Stallings Schools and other Downstate districts have taken steps to curtail their school costs.

Rep. Wolf said, "Chicago could wind up with a bloc of 45 legislative seats," comparing this to the present 179 House members (with any 89 able to pass legislation) and the proposed 118 (with 60 able to enact a bill).

Quinn, head of the Coalition for Political Honesty, disagreed with the two legislators and cited a Chicago Tribune article that said Chicagoans fear Downstate domination if the House size is trimmed. Wolf and Steele responded that the tipoff is that key Chicago Democrats are supporting the cutback plan, including Cook County Democratic Chairman George Dunne. (Continued on Page 3)

PILGRIM VIRGIN STATUE of Our Lady of Fatima visits St. Mary's Catholic Church in Madison Sunday during a month-long tour through the Springfield Diocese. The statue was met at the front entrance of the church at 6 p.m. prior to a special mass and program. The Pilgrim Virgin Statue remained at the church overnight for an all-night vigil which concluded this morning at 7. The statue was hand-carved in Fatima, Portugal, in 1947 and is on its 26th annual world tour. It will visit St. Elizabeth Church at 5:30 p.m. today and Sacred Heart Church at 11 a.m. on Tuesday. The statue carries the message of Fatima to the world which the Virgin Mary told to the three children at Fatima in 1917.

Briggs heads Nameoki ticket

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Harry Briggs, 59, a veteran of 16 years as supervisor of Nameoki Township, has decided after a decade of retirement from that post to once again "throw his hat into the ring" and seek the supervisor's job in balloting next April, it was announced Friday.

Briggs will head a full ticket, which includes Harold Davis, the current supervisor, as a candidate for highway commissioner. Incumbents Town Clerk Douglas Teeter, Tax Assessor Carl Macios and Tax Collector Freida Ballaw also will run on Briggs' ticket to retain their present positions.

Candidates on the ticket for trustees, all incumbents, are W. Lee Adams, Andy Besserman, Jerry Adams and Jim Counts.

The slate was finalized at a meeting Thursday night.

Davis said he feels the highway commissioner's job will better suit his time requirements, since it requires very little night work.

"The supervisor's job requires days and nights. As highway commissioner, I will continue to work at Granite City Steel at nights and devote my days to the job," Davis told the Press-Record. "I have the feeling that I have spent more hours out there (the township hall) than any previous supervisor," he added.

Should the current highway commissioner, Frank Mehele, decide to seek reelection, Davis said he will oppose Mehele, "because it is evident in the kind of job he's done. Evidence is his economic handling of the job and the physical shape of the roads."

"I feel he has not done the job and most of the people of the township feel he has not done the job," Davis added.

Davis also said he feels a united ticket, if all are elected, "will end the battles we have battled for many years. With this group, there would be more continuity. We need to pull the township together and make it go and I think we can do it."

Briggs told the Press-Record Friday, "They have been asking me if I would run and I was reluctant, but I think I would like it again. It gets in your blood.

He said the only person mentioned thus far, as a possible opponent to Briggs for the supervisor's post is former supervisor Louis Whitsell. If Whitsell ran, "We'd have a race," Briggs predicted.

Time change this Sunday

Daylight saving time will end this weekend, not returning until April 1981. The changeover from "fast time" will occur at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 26, when Quad-Cityans will turn their clocks and watches back one hour (or forward 11 hours).

The hour being gained from last April will have the effect of bringing brighter mornings but earlier evening darkness than has been the case in recent days.

School bond voting Saturday

Voters of Granite City Community Unit School District Nine will go to the polls from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday to decide on proposed funding for expanded repair and maintenance of aging school buildings.

polling places will be the 13 elementary schools. Residents will vote where their children attend, or would attend, school.

The special election calls for 112 remodeling and improvement projects at 19 buildings.

The first of two ballot questions deals with 79 renovation tasks at elementary schools, 20 at high schools, 12 at junior high schools and one at the Board of Education office complex.

Also on the ballot is a question on whether to alter the present tax rate ceiling for the Operations, Building and Maintenance Fund.

All items to be carried out have been urged by both the school staffs and members of the Citizens Advisory Council.

A breakdown of the 112 projects costing $2,900,000 shows 12 roofing installations aggregating $650,000, two remodeling programs totaling $650,000 and four heating and cooling projects costing $330,000.

Other project totals and cost estimates are: restroom and locker room improvements, eight, $195,000; ceiling and lighting projects, 17, costing $120,000; bleacher installation, one, $100,000; Tuckpointing, eight, $90,000; playground and driveway projects, five, $88,000; window projects, five, $80,000; school floors, 12, costing $75,000; Burglar alarms, 12 schools, $55,000; fire suppression systems, 14, costing $40,000; exterior wall projects, three, $40,000; electrical work, nine schools, $30,000; and contingencies and fees, $250,000.

The work and purchases totaling $2,900,000 to be financed from bond issue proceeds do not include another $867,623 already completed ($438,528

Derailment kills conductor

A train derailment at 7:40 p.m. Friday near the A. O. Smith Corp. plant injured two crew members, one fatally.

Gary W. Hammond, 27, of 807 N. Prairie, Bethalto, a conductor, was crushed and died instantly in the crash. He was pronounced dead at the scene at 7:55 by Deputy Coroner William Stenberg.

Dave Dagne, 32, of Belleville, a switchman, suffered abrasions to both knees and injuries to the left knee and foot when he was thrown from one of the railroad cars.

After treatment and X-rays, Dagne was released from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The derailment involved three Archer, Daniels and Midland Co. freight cars, each filled with soybeans.

The 18-car Illinois Terminal Railroad train was operating in rail switch yards beneath an Illinois Route Three traffic overpass, officials said. The first three cars left the tracks. Mr. Hammond was on the first car, which fell on top of him. The shipment of soybeans was destined to be transported down the Mississippi River.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately determined.

Driver killed by own truck

A truck driver, Michael R. Lancaster, 40, Lamar, Colo., was killed by his truck in a freak accident at 6 p.m. Saturday in the 4000 block of Kathy Drive, Pontoon Beach.

He had parked the large truck in a parking lot there near a group of apartments, and later started the engine. Witnesses said he climbed between the cab and trailer to check the load, and the truck began rolling on a slight incline.

Mr. Lancaster was caught beneath a wheel of the trailer, and was crushed about the head. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell.

The truck jackknifed and then began circling, making five complete circles at slow speed before a man could jump into the cab and turn off the ignition key, bringing the vehicle to a halt.

An inquest is planned.

Mr. Lancaster was driving for the Riser International Truck Line. There was no other driver assigned to the truck.

He was taken to Mercer Mortuary, and then was sent to Fort Worth, Tex., for arrangements on funeral services and burial.

HOPES ARE ON ICE. Granite City North player Stephan Giese's knee — and his team's playoff hopes — were put on ice here Friday night by Belleville Althoff. The Steelers and Althoff played for first place in the Gateway East Conference at Memorial Field and Althoff won 21-0. The loss was the first of the season for the 5-1 Steelers and wrapped up the conference championship for Althoff. However, if North wins the rest of its games this season, there is a chance it will be selected for the playoffs as an at-large entry. More details in today's sports.

Rehabilitation speaker here

Norton Saunders is 63 years old. He lives alone, swims a mile each week and is an avid fisherman. None of this would seem so remarkable except that Saunders suffered a stroke in 1962 that paralyzed his left arm and leg. He will speak here Oct. 21.

Told by doctors that he would spend the rest of his life in a wheelchair, Saunders was determined to overcome his handicap. "The man he credits for helping him the most is Dr. Howard Rusk, director of the New York University Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. A friend told Saunders about Dr. Rusk, known as the 'champion' of rehabilitation," and Saunders went to his clinic in New York.

"I was the healthiest guy in the whole place," Saunders says. "There were thalidomide victims — no arms or legs, there were basket cases from the Korean War. I thought I was in bad shape, but I became convinced they were a lot worse off."

It took three years to shed the wheelchair, and four more to walk without crutches and leg braces. "I went back home and began to seek out a peace and lifestyle I could handle."

However, living alone was frustrating; simple things, taken for granted, presented a great challenge: "Trying to learn how to tie a shoelace. To get into an automobile. To cut meat. To butter bread."

But with hard work and determination, Saunders now says, "I am totally 100 percent independent. I live alone and I handle all my own household chores. I drive with gadgets on my car."

He has developed several devices to aid in food preparation and cleaning. He has also designed a special harness to hold his casting rod; he is an accomplished fisherman, although he has use of only his right arm.

Saunders believes the key to successful rehabilitation is self-motivation. "Never say 'if I can do it' — say I will do it," he says.

Saunders uses his experience to help other victims of stroke and handicaps. An accomplished speaker, he has given numerous workshops across the U.S. and has addressed many stroke clubs, hospital rehabilitation organizations.

Saunders will be the featured speaker at St. Elizabeth Medical Center's community seminar on "Rehabilitation Through Motivation" that will be presented Tuesday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. in the Kettler gymnasium. For reservations, readers may call the public relations office at 798-3187.

LINCOLN STRING QUARTET WILL PLAY

The Lincoln String Quartet will be presented in a faculty recital Monday, Oct. 27 at 8:15 p.m. in the SUE Religious Center. Members are Kent Perry and John Kendall, violins; Robert Schieber, viola; and Joseph Pival, cello.

The quartet will open its program with von Webern's "Langsam-Satz (1906)," continuing with Haydn's "Quartet in G Major, Op. 76 No. 1," and concluding with Brahms' "Quartet in A Minor, Op. 51, No. 2." The recital is free and open to the public.

BOND INTEREST RATE INCREASED
Secretary of the Treasury G. William Miller has announced a one percent increase in the interest rate paid on U.S. savings bonds and savings notes.

The interest rate on Series EE bonds purchased on and after Nov. 1, 1980, is being increased from 7 percent to 8 percent, compounded semiannually, when the bonds are held to original maturity. The term to maturity is being shortened from 11 to nine years.

4 injured in collision

Rain and wet streets were factors in five Granite City traffic crashes occurring last week, but it was dry when four persons were hurt in a three-auto collision at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue.

Wilbert Henken, 69, of 2415 Adams St., northbound on Madison, was charged with disobeying a traffic light. David Smith, 22, of 820 Twenty-fourth St. was westbound and Helen Powell, 41, of 3213 Harvard Place, was southbound. She said the other two cars collided and then one of them hit her auto.

The three motorists were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center along with a passenger in the Powell car, Craig Powell, six years old, 3213 Harvard.

Craig Powell suffered abdominal swelling. Mrs. Powell was treated for right knee and arm injuries, and Smith was treated for a leg hematoma.

Doctoral degree to Laine Tadlock

Laine Tadlock, a 1968 graduate of Granite City High School, has earned a doctor of philosophy degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. While completing her degree, she received the honor of becoming a member of Phi Kappa Phi, a national scholastic honor society.

Dr. Tadlock is the daughter of Granite City resident Raymond L. Tadlock. She is currently the health and physical education coordinator for the Springfield, Ill., public schools.

Mental health called challenge of 1980s

Mental health should be the most urgent "frontier" of the 1980s, in the opinion of SUE President Earl Lazerson, who was the keynote speaker Thursday in Belleville at the ninth annual mental health institute of St. Clair County.

The institute continued through Friday, with more than 2,000 participating in 55 workshops conducted by professionals from specialized agencies, private practices, and nine colleges. "The 10 years to come are replete with emerging possibilities and promise in the crucial areas of personal and public mental health," Pres. Lazerson said.

"This remains the most urgent frontier we can commit ourselves to explore. Let us go forward in this adventure with all the discipline, energy, imagination and cooperation the task demands."

Oiling progress in recent years in understanding mental illness, the university president said that, nevertheless, many unanswered questions still exist. "To many of the citizens whom we seek to serve, mental illness remains an anxious, fearful mystery," Lazerson said.

"Many who consider themselves 'normal' feel acute discomfort and anxiety when confronting persons afflicted with handicaps or diseases originating in the mind, the brain or the neurological system."

"The work of perfecting public institutionalized treatment is an area which needs additional research and attention. Mindful of the inherent dignity of all persons as human beings, and recognizing rights guaranteed constitutionally and legally, we are aiding those who need protection from themselves and those from whom society needs protection with more care than ever before. But the work is still far from finished."

"No single program, process, or technological advance will ever give us a final answer." The study of the mind tells us that every answer leads to another question.

"We cannot be satisfied with broadening our personal understanding of what constitutes mental health and how we can achieve it. We must make healthy attitudes contagious."

Comparing the search for mental health with other pioneer efforts, particularly the exploration of outer space and man's landing on the moon, Lazerson concluded, "The frontiers of space will continue to challenge us, but with nothing like the urgency we must keep bringing to the ultimate, final frontier that will always be within us—the human mind and the best health we can provide for it."

heating units, $290,838 roofing, $60,688 heating line, $54,659 playground and drive work, and $13,240 automotive shop installation.

The latter remodeling costs were financed with proceeds from sale of McKinley School and interest earned on Bond and Interest Fund investments. By performing this work without bond borrowing, the school district saved $60,056 (assuming seven percent interest).

Further lowering the cost of proposed bonds and interest, area banks and savings and loan associations have announced plans to purchase $1,500,000 of the $2,000,000 bond issue "at the lowest possible interest rate."

Major remodeling is to include reconstruction of the Mitchell School kitchen and the Granite City High School South science rooms, offices and counseling areas.

Heating-cooling work is scheduled for Johnson School and South, and bleachers for South. Also listed for the latter school are roofing for the gymnasium and state roof area, tuckpointing, electrical work, temperature controls, office air-conditioning, exterior wall work, flooring, ceiling, lights, lockers, locker rooms and burglar alarms.

Granite City High School North projects are the east wing roof, walls, floors, locker rooms, fire suppression and playgrounds and drives.

Prather Junior High work will include tuckpointing, flooring and locker rooms.

At Grisby Junior High School, the projects involve roofing and fire suppression.

The Coolidge Junior High list mentions roofing, tuckpointing, windows, walls, ceilings, lights and locker rooms.

Work planned at the school board offices calls for roof installation.

Listings for elementary schools are as follows:

Emerson—roof, windows, electrical, alarms, fire suppression.

Frohman—electrical, flooring, lights, alarms, fire suppression, signs.

Johnson—roof, electrical, heating, cooling, carpeting, playgrounds and drives.

Lake—flooring, alarms, fire suppression.

Logan—roof, electrical, floor, ceilings, lights, alarms, fire suppression, playgrounds and drives.

Marshall—roof, tuckpointing, floor, ceiling, lights, alarms and fire suppression.

Maryville—lights, alarms, fire suppression, playgrounds and drives.

Mitchell—roof for the gymnasium and new addition, tuckpointing, windows, gymnasium electrical work, kitchen remodeling, restrooms and fire suppression.

Nameki—roof, tuckpointing, windows, electrical, floor, ceilings, lights, restrooms, alarms and fire suppression.

Niedringhaus—windows, electrical, ceilings, lights, restrooms, burglar alarms, fire suppression, playgrounds and drives.

Parkview—carpeting, alarms and fire suppression.

Webster—roof, tuckpointing, floor, ceilings, lights, alarms and fire suppression.

The proposed school tax rate change from $3.35 to $3.69 per $100 valuation is less than the $7.2-cent decrease achieved a year ago through retirement of past construction bonds and interest.

The 34-cent total to be decided by voters Saturday consists of 24 cents to retire the proposed $2,900,000 bond issue and 10 cents to increase the building fund's rate to 47 1/2 cents from the present 37 1/2 cents.

A rate hike on a $300 home assessed at $10,000 would cost $34 a year, $23.84 month or nine cents a day.

"While management by objectives is the procedure followed in other phases of our educational program, management by crisis has become the pattern in building maintenance and repair," Schirelstein said. J. Davis has told local organizations.

"For healthful, safe and comfortable conditions for the school children, a 'Yes' vote is needed on Oct. 25.

"We are limited now to only two percent of our yearly building fund revenue for maintenance, far below what is required. The other 98 percent goes for such operating costs as wages, utilities and insurance."

It is proposed to spend $1,109,000 at Granite City High School South, $268,000 at Johnson School, $176,000 at Coolidge Junior High, $147,000 at Granite City High School North, $120,000 at Mitchell School, $120,000 at Grisby Junior High School and $120,000 at Nameki School.

Also part of the $2,900,000 general obligation bond issue is repair work aggregating $95,000 at Niedringhaus School, $76,500 at Marshall School and $54,000 at Prather Junior High School.

Concluding the list are projects totaling $22,000 at Webster School, $35,000 at Logan School, $32,000 at the Board of Education office, $31,000 at Emerson School, $27,000 at Maryville School, $17,800 at Frohman School, $11,200 at Wilson School, $9,200 at Lake School, $6,200 at Johnson School and $2,000 at the Pre-School Center, plus $30,000 for electrical work in the district and $350,000 for fees and contingencies.

Local groups have been shown slide photographs of conditions targeted for improvement. The superintendent showed leaking roofs, causing "bucket brigades" in some schools, and damaging ceilings, walls and floors.

Roof work already done at Prather Junior High has provided better insulation and made classrooms cooler in warm weather, Supt. Davis said.

Windows rotting in old schools are to be replaced by aluminum windows, and incandescent lighting is to be replaced by fluorescent fixtures, conserving energy use. Wall cracks are to be repaired, brick surfaces tuckpointed, and gutters and downspouts replaced.

Defective plumbing, leaking cast-iron radiators, canteens with extensive ceiling damage, and outmoded science laboratories were shown, along with numerous scenes in which he said painting, cleaning and temporary patching have proven to be insufficient.

Davis added, "Some floors are so old that it is no longer possible to find replacement tiles of the right size and color."

Cutback plan

Retracting his belief that a change from 39 three-member districts to 118 single-member districts could save $7 million annually, Quinn told the Press-Record that the legislature could wipe out such savings but would not do so if it sensed voters' wishes and concerns regarding state spending.

Quinn predicted that the amendment to Article IV of the Illinois State Constitution will be approved, noting that one poll estimates 63 percent support.

He said his group is relying heavily on campaigning by "the nearly half-million Illinoisans who signed our petitions to put the amendment on the ballot." Steele and Wolf replied that many of the petition signers did not understand the full ramifications of the change but are now realizing its impact.

"It's healthy from every standpoint," Quinn said, asserting that "a streamlined House would be less chaotic and more efficient in resolving important issues," that approval would "make legislators more accountable and responsive to voters," that this is the first citizen-initiative proposal ever to appear on the Illinois ballot, that the change would end "the confusing system of cumulative voting that many people don't understand and that none of the other states and no foreign countries have copied during its 110 years of existence," and that "one-on-one contests would give voters a clear choice between the best candidates available, rather than having to choose three out of the four candidates."

Quinn took the position that each legislator would have only 95,000 people to represent instead of the present 190,000. The local legislators responded that with three House members sharing the task, there is a legislator for each 63,000 people now, compared to the proposed 95,000.

Rep. Wolf said added costs would be likely to more than offset savings from eliminating a third of the House members.

He added, "Their claim of $7 million savings already has been shown to be wrong, and they have revised their estimate downward to $3 million or $3 1/2 million."

Quinn contended, "The average annual cost of maintaining one Illinois legislator is $100,268, including $28,000 salary, $2,200 per diem allowance, $3,725 pension contribution, $810 health insurance, $2,406 travel expense, $17,000 district office allowance, $9,271 Springfield office (supplies, secretary and staff) and $15,225 legislative support services."

Wolf's answer: "I regularly turn back to the state treasury much of my district office allowance."

Steele challenged other cost items in Quinn's list and said there is no real question that the proposal stems from a desire by Chicagoans to gain tighter control of state decisions. "Quinn himself is from the Chicago area," he related.

The cutback is opposed by all 36th

District legislators—Sen. Sam Vadala, Rep. Jim McPike, Rep. Wolf and Rep. Steele—and by most House members. It was asserted.

While the local legislators said they are able to keep busy without duplicating each other's efforts, Quinn stressed his belief that "single-member districts could limit the common House practice in which more than one representative in a district introduces nearly identical legislation on the same subject, either upon a constituent's request or as an effort to 'one-up' a district mate."

"A legislative staffer said one committee last year had 80 bills on its calendar at the final deadline for committee action, and five of these bills dealt with the same topic in essentially the same way. The committee didn't know what to do, so it passed all five; the staff had to evaluate every bill, and a lot of time was wasted debating them. It happens every year."

Steele on Friday assailed not only the record of former Governor Daniel Walker but also the specific record of Quinn as a cabinet member in the Walker administration. Walker has said he is neutral on the cutback proposal.

David Vaughn, a Walker son-in-law and Southern Illinois coordinator of the Coalition for Political Honesty, will urge cutback approval in a debate at 8 a.m. Wednesday in House Stratford.

Opposing him in the debate will be Rep. Celeste Stedeh of Peleville.

PRESIDENTIAL

Illinois could hold the key

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — With election day less than a month away, John Anderson remains a big question mark in Illinois.

Will he hurt Jimmy Carter or Ronald Reagan the most?

With the presidential election shaping up as one of the closest in history, the outcome in Anderson's home state could conceivably decide it. Most polls, both of state and national origin, rate Illinois as close, but with most giving a slight edge to Reagan at this stage.

But Illinois is also a paradox as far as national reporting is concerned. The news magazines and the prestige newspapers of New York and Washington agree that Anderson appears to be taking more votes from Carter than he is from Reagan in most major states, with Illinois a notable exception.

One prominent Illinois politician who agrees with the national consensus is none other than Gov. James R. Thompson. The governor points to the strong primary showing made by Anderson in the city of Chicago and, more significantly, the heavy Republican suburban areas and the collar counties.

In the March primary Anderson, then running as a Republican, grabbed 47.9 percent of the GOP County vote compared to 38.2 percent for Reagan. The actual vote count showed 174,659 votes for Anderson in Cook to 139,467 for Reagan.

Reagan, however, ran far ahead of Anderson downstate: 407,888 to 240,534 for an approximate 132,000 vote plurality.

One factor encouraging worried Republican strategists is that much of Anderson's strong primary showing in the Chicago area was attributed to a big crossover vote by ordinary Democratic voters. The statistics appear to bear this out. In the last previous presidential election of 1976, a total of 238,522 votes were cast in the Democratic primary in the Cook County suburbs. But this year there were only 184,853. Meanwhile, the Republican primary turnout, which was only 172,958 four years ago, swelled to 272,138 this year. Niles Township provides an interesting comparison. In 1976 a total of 20,164 votes were cast in the Democratic primary, but last March the turnout shrank to 14,447. Meanwhile, the Republican vote, which was only 6,642 in 1976, exploded to 15,323 this year.

In the presidential election of 1976, Niles produced a virtual dead heat with Gerald Ford carrying the township by a mere 74 votes. The actual count was 28,669 for Ford to 28,615 for Carter.

The puzzle now is where those 400,000-plus Anderson primary votes in Illinois will go Nov. 4. Will Anderson retain them all and attract thousands more from independents and others who shunned the primary? Will those presumably Democratic voters, who did not like either Carter or Sen. Edward Kennedy in the primary, return to the party fold?

Will those Republican voters, who preferred Anderson to Reagan in the primary, stick to the party fold as an independent or will they switch to Reagan?

There are many indications that the Anderson campaign overall has flattened or slipped since the primary. The novelty has worn off, the candidate himself generates little excitement or enthusiasm and there is a growing feeling among the electorate that he doesn't stand a chance of winning.

Most political observers believe that the traditional voting patterns will reassert themselves in the final weeks of the campaign and that the election will boil down to the usual choice between a Republican or Democrat.

But no one really knows for sure and this has been a decidedly unpredictable year. The fact that Illinois is Anderson's home state makes the outlook more difficult to judge than elsewhere. The fact that Reagan is a native of Illinois could be a factor in a close race.

In the eight presidential elections since World War II, Illinois has gone Republican five times and Democratic three times. But the Republicans have won the last three times and the Democrats have not carried this state since 1964.

Ford carried Illinois by 112,974 votes in 1976 and most Democrats concede that Carter is in an uphill fight this year. But earlier Republican hopes of a big Reagan tide have been tempered considerably.

With the world situation and the domestic economy what they are today, some dramatic development could sharply alter the picture by election day. But right now it looks like a close finish in Illinois and John Anderson might well decide it.

Enroll 3 in 25-year club

The 25-Year Club of American Steel Foundries will enroll three new members at its 37th annual meeting and banquet at Croatian Home, 1000 Madison Ave., Madison, at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5.

After dinner, there will be a slide presentation of the local plant and personnel, past, present and future. Three new members will receive watches from William P. Donovan, works manager of the local plant.

The enrollment now stands at 387 members. Thirty members died within the past year. The club was organized in 1944 for the purpose of giving recognition to those employees of American Steel Foundries with long years of service at the local plant.

Club president this year is Morris Lacy.

The new members are George W. Kozjak of Granite City; Van M. Paddock of Glen Carbon, and Roosevelt Tate of St. Louis.

Revise policies of SIU board

Five of six chapters of the revised policies of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees have been approved by the board. Approval of the chapter on "Faculty and Staff Service" will be sought at the trustees' November meeting.

Also approved by the board was an amendment to the bylaws outlining the process by which existing regulations intended for chancellor approval will be developed by the universities' presidents and processed through the approval stage.

The board's policies govern the internal operations of the university and all administrative actions.

The revised policies are separated into six subjects. The five newly approved are: academic program, degrees and awards; student regulations and policies; tuition, fees and charges; financial and business affairs; and university property and physical facilities.

Proposed revisions had been submitted to the board for information and reaction in September. Comments and suggestions received regarding the chapter on faculty and staff service were submitted at the October session for consideration and possible action in November.

Revision of the Code of Policy was undertaken by the office of the chancellor earlier this year. Purpose was not to create new board policy but to restate existing policy in light of current circumstances.

In June, the board approved revised bylaws and statutes.

Grant to improve student discipline

The School of Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, in association with Edwardsville School District, has received a grant for $5,200 for a project designed to improve the discipline and scholastic ability of elementary school students.

The program, "Planning and Teaching for Responsible Behavior," is aimed at improving students' behavior, attitudes and discipline so a better scholastic standing can be achieved, according to Robert Eberly, project director in the Edwardsville School District.

He said the project should give students a better understanding of their own self-concept, an aesthetic sensitivity, more moral and ethical responsibilities and improved interpersonal relations.

SIEU's participation in the program involves providing evaluation and consultation services to the school district. The program is currently in its second year and is funded by the Illinois Board of Education.

Charges made by professor

A statement signed by American Association University Professor Negotiations Committee Chairman Donald Libby was presented to members of the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees at their October meeting last week. The statement included specific accusations of harassment of faculty members by "administration." The statements were given out after the meeting started and neither Interim President Bruce Wissore nor any member of the board would comment on the accusations immediately following the meeting.

Dialogue for seniors to begin

Peter Simpson, a man who spends his life with the language as a poet, political and speech writer, reviewer and author of special Christmas stories, will be guest speaker at the opening session of the 1980 Dialogue for Senior Citizens on Wednesday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The Dialogue will meet each Wednesday from 1:30 until 4 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the University Center. The sessions are free and open to all senior citizens in this region. The series will continue through May, with a new speaker and subject announced each week. Complete listings of the weekly programs are available through Anthony J. Traylor, Gerontology Program director, at 692-3454.

2 charged with arson

Arson charges were filed at 4 p.m. Thursday against Ralph E. Clatis, 1440 Grand Ave., and Richard W. Janco, 2449 Edison Ave. Each is 18 years old.

The two were taken into custody at 1:35 a.m. Wednesday in the 1400 block of Grand Avenue after a fire had started in the Madison County Department of Manpower Development office at 14th and State streets. Concrete blocks were used to break several windows, enabling interior drapes to be set afire with a match or cigarette lighter, investigators said.

Witnesses who heard the windows being broken alerted police, who went to the area, summoned firemen, and apprehended the suspects based on descriptions obtained from the witnesses. There was only minor damage from the fire and smoke.

Arson charges were authorized by the Madison County state's attorney. Bonds were set at $50,000 ($5,000 cash) each at preliminary hearings Thursday.

Fire at Harris School; arrests

Allegedly interfering with Madison firemen who were fighting a blaze outside the south end of Harris Grade School, 600 block of Alton Avenue, at 10:40 p.m. Friday, Kevin D. Julius, 19, of 1324 Carr St. was charged with battery, disobeying police and passing on an open can of beer. He is accused of kicking a police officer in the left leg while being looked at the station.

A juvenile was charged at 3:50 p.m. Saturday with criminal damage to property, in connection with the Harris fire. Police alleged the youth placed burning cardboard boxes against the school exterior, causing the painted surface to catch fire on a canopy. Firefighters were able to extinguish it before the blaze spread to the building.

CRASH INJURES TWO

Betty J. Nash, 42, of 316 Highway 203, Madison, suffered neck pains and Joyce Howard, 61, Marine, Ill., a passenger in the Nash auto, sustained lower back injuries at 3:45 p.m. Friday when the car was struck in the left rear. They had parked at 2314 Emert Ave. while looking for directions and an address. Richard W. Watkins, 172 Briarwood, was charged with reckless driving after his auto, turning left from Edgewood Avenue, spun and skidded against the Nash car.

TWO HURT IN CRASH: LIGHT POST STRUCK
Injuries were suffered by Charles E. McCall, 23, and Patricia Brown, one and a half years old, both of 2008 Washington Ave. when his westbound auto failed to complete the turn from Edgewood Avenue, Madison, at 1:10 a.m. Saturday. The car struck and bent a light standard at Bob's Mobil station, 1900 Edgewood Road.

The two were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where the driver was treated for a left foot fracture and face cuts and the child was treated for a tongue laceration. Sustaining front end damage, the auto was towed from the scene. Arlene McCall, 22, of the 2008 Washington address was treated a short time before the others for a left foot laceration.

COLLISION ON LEE
Sharon D. Brooks, 36, of 2240 Lee Ave. was injured at 3:15 p.m. Saturday while in her auto in the 2200 block of Lee. A van driven by Daniel Hopkins, 18, of 281 Monroe allegedly backed against the front of her car; both southbound vehicles had stopped at 22nd Street.

Cancer patients using Laetrile

By JOAN MURARO

SPRINGFIELD — Lack of the medical profession's approval of Laetrile as a worthwhile cancer treatment hasn't deterred "hundreds" of Illinois residents from trying it, Public Health Department authorities say.

Dr. Roy Upham, chief of the food and drugs division in the state health department, says he has not talked recently but "I would guess we have several hundreds" of affidavits on file from physicians who are administering the controversial drug to their terminally ill cancer patients. By far, the majority of the cases are in northeastern Illinois, near the Chicago area where facilities are readily available for its use, he said.

Under Illinois law, adopted in 1977, Laetrile use is legal in the state, but the physician dispensing it must file with the department an affidavit showing the patient involved is a terminal cancer patient, and on what medical evidence he bases that diagnosis.

The patient must also file an affidavit, Upham said, stating he knows his condition, understands that the drug is not recognized for cancer treatment and chooses anyway to use it, either with or without conventional forms of cancer treatment.

There is a third affidavit also required, Upham said, which is filed less often than the other two. That one, required under an addition written into the original Laetrile bill by the state Legislature, requires a physician to notify the department within 30 days after ending Laetrile treatment, and show why the treatment was terminated.

"The idea was to use the notices to see how effective Laetrile might be," Upham said, "but there isn't enough information to make that. Sometimes a patient apparently gets better, and quits the treatments, or he just moves away in a hurry, and we just don't see him again, so we don't really know why the treatments were stopped."

Through the law requires the doctor and the patient to file the affidavits with the department, he said, there are no enforcement methods in the law, no teeth, by which action can be taken against persons who fail to file.

Though a "classical Catch-22 situation" existed earlier in states with the first laws legalizing Laetrile use, many of the problems have since been cleared up, he said.

Originally, in states like Illinois there were laws which said you could use Laetrile legally, but there was none in the state and it was illegal to ship it in, or even bring in the raw materials to make it. (Laetrile is derived from apricot pits.) Recently, though, federal authorities were enjoined by a court in a southwestern state from halting shipment of the substance, which is legal to ship into Illinois.

Though Mexico is a prime supplier of Laetrile, it is also manufactured in Canada, and can be obtained from Germany, Upham said.

To ship Laetrile legally, he said, it is necessary to send the federal Food and Drug Administration an affidavit that the physician is administering it, with the patient's consent, to a terminally ill cancer patient.

Faulty equipment blamed for missing tollway funds

SPRINGFIELD — Poor equipment being used to audit the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority was blamed for failure to control cash receipts in an audit by State Auditor General Robert G. Cronson.

During one month of a test on accounting errors exposed over significant portions of toll revenues, the audit report said.

Computed revenue, based on equipment generated data, could not be recorded for over 25 percent of the automatic lane revenue and for 52 percent of the manual lane revenue because of malfunctioning treadles and validators at the toll booths, the audit reported.

The audit said the Toll Highway Authority agreed to replace the faulty equipment with new equipment, but it has not yet done so.

The authority said it has already taken action to correct the problem.

The authority should issue guidelines to money-room employees detailing the procedures to be followed in the counting process, according to the audit.

Money-room personnel often fail to keep revenues segregated by lane which, in such instances, the audit said, undermines the system's accounting controls.

On payroll reviews, the audit said, periodic checks of the propriety and mathematical accuracy of the payroll input sheet changes are not being performed by the authority's internal audit staff.

INSURED ON GRAND — Dorothy M. Toth, 48, of 2324 Washington Ave. was injured at 12:10 a.m. Saturday in the 2200 block of Grand Avenue when the right front of her northbound car hit the left rear of the parked auto of Janice Huges, 2424 Grand.

Both vehicles were towed from the scene and the motorist was charged with reckless driving. She was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of right hand and right elbow bruises and back and shoulder pains. Police rescue, fire, ambulance and towing vehicles went to the crash scene.

GC man stabbed

Cledith Archie Milan, 50, a custodian at Mitchell Grade School, was stabbed in the right rib area with a butcher knife shortly before 6:30 a.m. Friday in front of his home at 2130 Bryan Ave.

The kitchen-type knife was plunged into him up to the handle, and was left in the wound pending treatment. Rushed by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, he was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital, Richmond Heights.

The wound appeared to be severe and was near the back of the right side, authorities said.

A neighbor noticed Milan lying halfway on the Milan porch, with the upper portion of his body on the lawn. When police were summoned, the victim said he had been stabbed while walking toward his home from his auto.

He was unable to identify the assailant or explain the attack. There were no signs of a scuffle in the yard or home.

PATIO THEFT

A four-foot-tall rubber plant reclining on a chair and assorted bicycle parts were stolen from the patio area at the home of Glenda Beck, 1120 Greenwood St., Madison, she informed police at 7:55 p.m. Thursday.

The State Journal-Register, a Copley newspaper, learned of the allegations from a letter to the newspaper from a gate attendant, outlined it for him.

The person who reported the missing items to the newspaper gave the same information to the Department of Law Enforcement.

He said the gate attendant told him he was making enough off the palming to live much of the rest of the year.

The operation allegedly worked in this manner: The attendant sold a ticket to a fair visitor, who then handed the ticket to a ticket-taker.

Instead of tearing the ticket in half, the ticket was sold whole and later returned to the seller, who resold it to another visitor.

The ticket then was sold again, this time being torn in half. One entrance fee was turned over to the state fair, along with the torn ticket.

The other half was kept by the gate attendant involved.

The source said only two attendants were involved, agent Higgs said. Investigators watched one of the attendants on the Saturday night, but saw nothing illegal.

Higgs said the type of palming that usually occurs is petty theft, involving passing tickets across a fence so friends can get in free.

"You would have to have a true professional" to palm on the scale the attendant claimed, Higgs said. "And we don't have any of those. This would be difficult for an amateur. If the tickets were sold, say, at $1.50 and 50 cents, you would have to do this hundreds of times a day."

Higgs also pointed out that all ticket sellers are bonded, and a history of this would have come out when the bonding company did a background check.

The contractor who hired gate admittance people "has been in the business 30 years" and was very careful in hiring attendants, Higgs said. However, Higgs added, the person he hired in the number necessary for the fair, "it is possible some are not so good."

Audits and observations by the contractor, by the fair agency, and, on the last day, by the DLE detectives all turned up nothing, Higgs said, indicating major skimming probably did not occur.

Ticket-palming was not the only money-making scheme the attendant allegedly participated in.

The source said the attendant told him he also was selling non-paid admission slips.

The source showed the Journal-Register two such tickets, numbered 01159 and 01160, and said the attendant gave him, telling him he had "plenty."

Those tickets apparently came from coupon books that the fair distributes to persons working at the fairgrounds.

Higgs said it is possible that once those coupon books are issued, "someone could be selling them."

But Higgs said the state fair is satisfied that, if such a scheme did occur, its intake was negligible.

Every ticket for which money was not there was paid for by the contractor, Higgs said. The gate receipts match the number of people who entered the fair "with reason," he added.

Ticket scam alleged at state fair

By RON EBBEST

SPRINGFIELD — Detectives of the state Department of Law Enforcement have been investigating an alleged ticket-palming scheme that may have skimmed several thousand dollars from gate receipts at the Illinois State Fair.

However, no arrests have been made, and agents have no proof that the skimming actually took place. Detectives said they learned of the scheme too late in the fair — the last Saturday — to determine the veracity of the allegations.

The operation reportedly involved sales of the same tickets more than once, a practice known as "ticket palming."

When asked about the allegations, Herb Higgs, assistant state fair Superintendent St. Hatcher, said that, while ticket "palming" goes on all the time at the fair, he does not believe the scheme could have involved the thousands of dollars alleged.

The State Journal-Register, a Copley newspaper, learned of the allegations from a letter to the newspaper from a gate attendant, outlined it for him.

Those tickets apparently came from coupon books that the fair distributes to persons working at the fairgrounds.

Higgs said it is possible that once those coupon books are issued, "someone could be selling them."

But Higgs said the state fair is satisfied that, if such a scheme did occur, its intake was negligible.

Every ticket for which money was not there was paid for by the contractor, Higgs said. The gate receipts match the number of people who entered the fair "with reason," he added.

Presidential Candidates

How They Stand:

• "There are no quick answers to inflation and above all no painless answers."

The fundamental challenge to our economy in the 1980's is to create full employment, stable prices, and real growth, with jobs that attack our declining productivity and energy dependence—the major causes of inflation and recession...

• "My Administration's budget policy has been based on balancing important but competing goals: providing adequate Federal resources to meet our Nation's needs, while restraining the growth of the Federal budget."

• "It is sheer deception to promise the American people that we can have this enormously expensive and unfair tax cut, that we can dramatically increase defense expenditures even above and beyond the substantial levels I have recommended, and that we can sustain our programs in education, employment, health and other areas, and that we can exercise budget restraint at the same time."

• "The most important step we can take to revitalize American industry is to provide incentives for greater private investment."

• "To help offset rising individual tax burdens in ways that do not rekindle inflation...I will ask Congress for...measures next year to deal with this problem."

• "We have got to keep inflation under control while we...build permanent jobs for people in the private industry sector, not in make-work jobs that are very expensive to the American taxpayer..."

• "In the first three years I was President, we increased the net number of jobs in this country by more than eight million."

• "Our decision to defer, but not abandon our efforts to secure ratification of the SALT II Treaty reflects our firm conviction that the United States has a profound national security interest in the constraints on Soviet nuclear forces which only that treaty can provide."

• "To limit strategic nuclear weapons, as the SALT treaties do, is not to reduce our strength but to reduce the danger that misadventure and miscalculation could lead to global catastrophe."

• "I want to reiterate in the most unequivocal of terms that in the autonomy of nations, the Republic of China will not be supported nor accept any position that might jeopardize Israel's vital security interests. Our commitment to Israel's security and well-being remains unqualified and unshakable."

• "Our decision to normalize relations with the People's Republic of China will help to preserve peace and stability in Asia and in the Western Pacific."

• "It reflects our recognition of that Government as the sole legal government of China..."

Health: "I stand ready to implement...national health insurance. This is long overdue. But I believe we've put forward now to Congress a carefully planned, carefully crafted national health insurance program..."

Welfare: "I proposed welfare reform to Congress in the form of the Work and Training Opportunities Act and the Social Welfare Reform Amendments Act. These two Acts would lift over two million people out of poverty by providing assistance to individuals and families to enable them to meet minimum income standards and by providing employment to those able to work...We must continue to work to ensure the enactment of both of these acts."

Abortion: "I am personally very much opposed to abortion and I will do everything I can to minimize abortions in this country. I am not in favor of the Federal Government financing abortions unless a mother's life is in danger or unless the pregnancy is the result of rape or incest."

"I want to be fair with you, I am not in favor of a Constitutional amendment to prohibit abortions."

• "The high level of the nation's consumption of gasoline is the single most important cause of our dependence on foreign oil. Our consumption of gasoline can be reduced with less serious consequences to our economy than if similar reductions were taken with respect to other petroleum products, such as home heating oil."

• "We must never forget that conservation is the cheapest and cleanest source of energy we have."

• "We do not have the luxury of abandoning nuclear power or imposing a lengthy moratorium on its use...Once we have instituted the necessary reforms to assure safety, we must resume the licensing process promptly so that the new plants which we need to reduce our dependence on foreign oil can be built and operated. Nuclear power is an option that we should keep open."

• "I favor immediate elimination of all federal price controls on oil and natural gas, because their primary effect has been to reduce domestic energy production. Elimination of controls could increase oil production by up to two to four million barrels per day, and could double natural gas production. In addition, by reducing the impact on OPEC oil, domestic energy would help stabilize ever-rising energy prices."

• "Those who preside over the worst energy shortage in our history tell us less and less that we will run out of oil, gasoline and natural gas a little more slowly. Conservation is desirable, of course, for we must not waste energy. But conservation is not the sole answer to our energy needs."

• "The most serious problems with producing and using coal are solvable: there is thus no reason to allow unnecessarily restrictive federal rules to deprive the American people of this valuable energy source."

• "Government causes inflation, and therefore government is the only one who can cure it."

• "I'll attack inflation sensibly. First, I will tell our monetary authorities that they have only one job—to restore and maintain a sound dollar at home and abroad...Second, I will ask Congress to act immediately in beginning the necessary reform of our tax system...Third, I will attack excessive federal spending...Finally, I believe we need to accept the fact that federal over-regulating of the economy has exceeded the bounds of sensibility. Where costs exceed benefits, the regulators must desist."

• "We must balance the budget...[T]hrough a comprehensive assault on waste and inefficiency...we can...two percent out of the budget in fiscal year 1981 and...we will be able to increase this gradually to seven percent of what otherwise would have been spent in fiscal year 1985."

• "The answer to this depressing situation lies in immediate action by the Congress to reinvigorate the economy. The answer lies in a tax cut, a genuine tax cut...to be effective on January 1, 1981...it should take the form of an across-the-board, 10 percent cut in income tax rates on individual, as well as an effective accelerated depreciation schedule to revive the flow of investment into American business..."

• "[T]he only real long-term solution to unemployment is to stimulate economic growth, thereby creating enough private jobs for all the unemployed workers. This can best be achieved by a comprehensive program of tax rate reductions and deregulation of American industry..."

• "I believe the SALT II Treaty should be withdrawn, and I especially believe that the U.S. should not abide by its terms prior to ratification."

• "[O]ur policy has provided them the opportunity to use arms negotiations to mask their global trouble-making...When we demonstrate our determination not to allow the Soviets to achieve a strategic advantage over us, I believe they will become interested in legitimate arms control..."

• "The central objective of American policy in the Middle East should be to prevent the extension of Soviet influence or domination over any nation or coalition of nations. The crucial element determining the success or failure of American policy is the fate of Israel. Israel is America's natural ally, and the ultimate regional deterrent to the extension of Soviet hegemony in the region."

• "I would not pretend, as Carter does, that the relationship we now have with Taiwan, enacted by our Congress, is not official. I am satisfied that this act provides an official and adequate basis for safeguarding our relationship with Taiwan. And I pledge to enforce it."

Health: "The purpose of any health policy should be to provide the highest quality care for the greatest number of people at the lowest cost. National health insurance does not meet these goals."

Welfare: "[M]ost politicians concede that our present welfare system is a failure. But the so-called welfare reform proposals sponsored by the Carter Administration would add more people to the rolls, make the system more expensive, and increase federal control..."

• "[W]e should transfer general welfare programs back to the states and localities, along with the tax resources to pay for them."

Abortion: "I support...a constitutional amendment to restore protection to the unborn child's right to life...I am opposed to using federal tax money to pay for abortions where the life of the mother is in no danger."

How feminism affects families

(This is the seventh in a series of 15 articles exploring "American Families in Transition.")

By CATHERINE R. STIMPSON
Few social institutions are more misunderstood than the family, and few social movements are more misunderstood than feminism.

Both the family and feminism are complex creatures of history, influenced by race and class, nationality and religion.

One really should speak, not of "the family" and "feminism," but of families and feminisms. Both also provoke opinions and passions that may obscure a clear picture of their relationship.

For many, the relationship between feminism and the family is antagonistic.

The family, like other social institutions, and inevitably changing, and feminism has frequently been the scapegoat for those who regret the changes.

Opponents of "women's lib" often label it a destructive force that threatens the security and sanctity of traditional family roles.

In a national poll in 1977, 40 percent of those respondents thought that the family was breaking down and that the women's movement was largely to blame.

Even a woman whose family life is miserable may recoil from the perception of feminism, based largely on negative stereotypes portrayed by the media.

Even supporters of economic, legal, and political rights for women may stop short of supporting domestic change.

ANTI-FAMILY ARGUMENTS.

In turn, ever since the 19th Century, many feminists have claimed that the family is a patriarchal form that helps men and hurts women.

For some, like the English philosopher John Stuart Mill, the home is a place in which men reveal their inability to live with women who are their equals.

Laws that give husbands power over their wives are said to reinforce this weakness, which makes itself as strength.

For other feminists, shaped by Marxist and socialist thought, the capitalist world consists of two interdependent spheres: one of public productive work and one of private, reproductive work.

The second both serves the first and helps to sustain its inequities.

For some radical feminists, the family began as a biological unit of mother and child—that kept our species going. But, in their view, the dependency of mothers and children upon fathers has had bad results.

For still others, who combine feminism and modern psychology, the family has harmed both men and women. As sons grow up, they tend to fear returning to a state of psychological infancy with needs that only their mothers can gratify.

Since 1963, when Betty Friedan published "The Feminine Mystique," feminists have documented such negative beliefs about the family in some detail.

They have helped to expose the physical abuses—incest, wife-beating—that women suffer within the home.

They have traced psychological patterns which show that many women find motherhood constricting rather than fulfilling, and that men need not be deprived if people other than their natural mothers care for them.

Studying women's work, feminists have shown how burdensome it can be.

The jobs women hold in the labor force—such as clerical workers, who are often expected to wait on their male bosses—tend to be low-paying, onerous extensions of their domestic role.

Even with outside jobs, women continue to do most housework as well.

Despite such realities, feminists have not universally condemned the family. They recognize that many families have worked well for women, that many women have done well within families.

For example, black and Hispanic families in America have often been flexible, supportive networks that were necessary for an individual's survival.

Nor are feminists alone when they analyze family stress, tension and hostility. Freud, for example, cast the family drama as a human trauma. But Freud was no feminist.

FEMINIST PERSPECTIVES.

However, feminism is special in its insistence that we look at families from the point-of-view of the women whose identity has historically been so bound up with domesticity and child care.

It asks that we test families, in part, by what women do within them, by the rewards they receive for those efforts, and by the consequences of family life for women's power, autonomy, dignity and health.

Feminists also cheerfully accept the fact that irrefutable historical records—like the entry of a majority of women into the labor force—are directing us toward alternative family forms.

In feminism is more the effect than the cause of these forces.

Perhaps more than any other group, feminists seriously think about and experiment with new ways in which people might live together.

Because women have been asked to maintain the family, their activity in changing it may seem particularly frightening.

To be sure, feminists disagree about the family. Some declare it obsolete; machines will replace mothers as the rearers of children.

Others predict that the family will change, but we will not abandon stable, intimate groups, which different generations live together.

A few also assert that the bond between mother and child is a unique mingling of nature and nurture, of physiology, psychology and culture.

Others, far greater in number, argue that fathers as well as mothers, communal groups as well as the family, can love and parent children.

FRATERNITY AND EQUALITY.

However, feminists have reached a rough consensus on other questions.

They reason that women ought to claim their share of human freedom: They ought to be able to decide, without paying a social price, if and when they will become mothers. They ought to be able to choose their life styles, without penalty.

Constructing a family ethic, the women's movement endorses the principle of equality.

It assumes that adults who live together ought equitably to share pleasure and power, love and domestic duties, delight and drudgery.

Paradoxically, more and more women who do not call themselves feminists are now acting on some feminist principles in their everyday lives.

Over a third of all American women now hold full-time jobs. In both the public sphere of the outside world and the private sphere of the home, women are finding egalitarianism more attractive.

Although most women still favor marriage, over half believe that being a parent is not essential for marital happiness.

If women are raising children, they are more often blurring the traditional division of labor between girls' work, usually around the house, and boys' work, rarely around the house.

In brief, history is apparently closing a gap between what many American women do and what feminists would like them to do.

Not surprisingly, American women are less suspicious of feminism than they once were. In 1970, only 40 percent of them in a national survey approved of most of the efforts to change women's status. In 1979, 64 percent did.

In 1980, on a spring morning, a middle-aged woman attended a lecture about American women, their work, and their families. When it ended, she spoke up. She had gone back to school, she said, and had never been happier. Then one day her son had come home, sat in the kitchen, looked up and asked, "What about some bacon and eggs?"

The women commented, "I looked back at him, and I snapped. I told him to make them himself."

"He was grown up, and just because I had given birth to him, that didn't mean that I had to have a frying pan attached to my hand for the rest of my life."

She added, "He hasn't gotten over the shock yet."

Feminism may be as shocking to many people as that mother was to her son.

Both are firmly saying that we have asked too much of mothers, and given too little: that our public and our private lives are undergoing—slowly, erratically, but irreversibly—an evolution if not a revolution.

The better part of wisdom, they are saying, is to see, not to smear, that process—and to realize that feminism is not a scapegoat, but a sympathetic, active witness to profound changes in the ways in which we grow up, toil, dream and love.

types conference schedules. The new facilities are among the first offices to open in a renovated area of the University Center after several months of remodeling.

'Dawn of the Dead' shown for Halloween

The film, "Dawn of the Dead," will be shown Oct. 30 and 31 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville as part of the University Center Board (UCB) fall film series.

In this R-rated uncut sequel to "Night of the Living Dead," George Romero "unleashes his zombies in an incredibly tense and suspenseful horror film. A mysterious plague sweeps the nation causing the dead to rise from their graves," according to a UCB spokesman.

Showtimes are 2:30 and 8 p.m. Thursday and 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday, in Meridian Ballroom. Admission is $1 for SIUE students with identification and $1.50 for the public.

Other films in the series include "On the Waterfront" Nov. 6 and 7, and "And Now for Something Completely Different" Nov. 13.

ARRESTED ON WARRANT Jerry W. Johnson, 23, of 54 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was arrested at 9:05 p.m. Thursday on a warrant, issued in February, alleging failure to pay a fine on a gambling conviction. He was released on notice to appear.

Open house at North Tuesday

Granite City High School will hold an open house Tuesday evening and parents will be invited to visit classrooms, where a variety of special demonstrations will be offered.

Demonstrations include blood pressure testing, demonstrations of computers, cosmetology, auto mechanic repairs, aquariums, terrariums, sewing, radio and television repairs and drafting.

There will be free babysitting in Room 513, the Madrigals will perform in Room 316 from 7:45 to 8:15, student council officers will explain the workings of the council in room 511, a talk on part-time employment will be given in the library and donuts and beverages will be served in room 530, according to the agenda for the event.

Two injured in Madison mishap

A man and his infant son sustained injuries last week in a two-car accident occurring in the 1500 block of Third Street, Madison.

Police said an auto operated by J. C. Baker, 104 Gareche Homes, Madison, traveling west on Third Street, apparently swerved into the oncoming lane of traffic, striking a car being driven by Danny W. Graham, 1935a Grand Ave., Graham, 20, whose face struck the steering wheel and rearview mirror, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He was treated for glass in the eyes and pain in the neck and back and was released.

In the mishap, Graham's 5-month-old son, William, fell from a car seat to the floor. The infant was examined at the medical center and was released.

Baker was charged with improper lane usage.

TAKE PASTRIES Five cases of strawberry, cherry and blueberry toaster "pop-up" pastries, worth $88, were stolen from a truck belonging to Schulze and Burch Biscuit Co., 1332 State St., Madison, while the vehicle was parked there last week. A lock on the truck's rear door was tried to get inside.

GRANITE CITY BANK

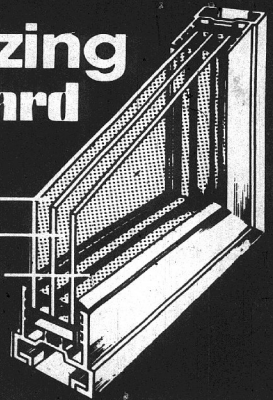

Although I'm single and have a good job, I still am having some real problems financially. Frankly, my greatest concern is trying to determine where all my money goes. I feel I live pretty frugally, but still I run out of money every month. What can I do to improve this situation?

Since most people are too busy to stop and make notations after every purchase, the best way of keeping this record is your personal bank checking account. Because you returned checks and check book stubs give you a permanent and detailed record of expenditures, this can be an almost perfect method of recording the information needed for future budgeting. Your cancelled checks are also automatic and indisputable receipts for each purchase you make. The back of your monthly bank statement is a handy place for not only balancing your checking account but also for making notes about changes needed to bring your budget into line with what you want it to be.

Grand jury may study mistrial in rape case

There are indications a Madison County grand jury will soon investigate intervention by a volunteer for the Rape and Sexual Abuse care center which led to a mistrial being declared in a recent rape case.

The Press-Record has learned that at least one of the jurors in the mistrial has been subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury to be convened soon in Edwardsville. The next grand jury session is set for Nov. 6, but Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron said he cannot comment whether the issue will be discussed at that session.

"We are looking at that officially to determine what exactly happened," Byron said of his office's investigation into the matter.

The incident occurred during the trial of Raymond Patterson, 37, Alton, who is charged with the rape and deviate sexual assault of a 23-year-old Alton woman in May.

had to declare a mistrial, since the Appellate Court would almost certainly have overturned any conviction in the case.

Byron said the incident was brought to the attention of his office after the mistrial and they are investigating allegations.

The Press-Record has learned that among the allegations being investigated is the possibility the rape center volunteer may have met on more than one occasion with one of the jurors.

In addition, the volunteer is said to have had lunch with seven jurors and talked about the work the rape center does.

Pam Klein, director of the center, has been quoted as saying the volunteer had not completed her training and had decided on her own to attend the trial. The volunteer did not know the rape victim and had not worked on the case.

Halloween safety tips

Halloween is supposed to be a little scary, but not horrifying.

Careful parents can help make Halloween a safe treat for the millions of hobgoblins and witches who will be out and about on Oct. 31, according to insurance authorities.

They remind parents of these tips:

— Go with your children on the neighborhood rounds or send a responsible teenager. Plan to return by nightfall.

— Stick to your own neighborhood or to the homes of people you know.

— Avoid darkened houses. Homeowners who welcome "trick-or-treaters" usually keep their homes well lit.

— Closely examine all "goodies" before allowing your children to nibble.

— Costumes should fit properly and be made with light, visible colors and flame retardant materials.

— Reflective tape on all sides of the costume helps drivers see children.

— If possible, use makeup instead of a mask when designing an outfit. Many masks severely limit visibility.

— Flashlights are safer than candles or lanterns.

— Neighborhood, community or church Halloween parties can be safe and enjoyable alternatives to "trick or treating."

Pre-winter car checkups urged

Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer, citing the high cost of owning and operating an auto, says engine tuneups are of major importance to motorists in terms of conservation and safety.

"At this time of year," the chief comments, "the best way to winterize your car is to take it to your dealer or reputable service station with instructions to take care of everything that has anything to do with keeping your car running and moving during adverse weather in the months ahead."

Palchiff also addressed himself to an allegation by Byron that the school board had violated state law in purchasing items for the new middle school, without competitive bidding.

Palchiff wrote: "As to your letter on bidding procedures, we are fully aware of the statute regarding the necessity of formal bidding of items in excess of $2,500. We have made a copy of your letter for our attorney."

"Your impression that our only failure to follow the statute was an advertising statute was an erroneous stemmed from a desire to equip and furnish the school as quickly and conveniently as possible (to meet a starting school deadline) was correct."

The lowest priced bids to meet our specifications were always accepted," Palchiff's letter concluded.

Byron has accepted the letter and said he plans to investigate, in the near future, if the district is using the new method of recording attendance to report all absences to the state.

Association of Chiefs of Police:

1. Windshield wiper blades should wipe clear — meaning live rubber in the blades and adequate arm pressures.

2. The heater-defroster should put out enough warm air to keep the windshield and side and rear windows free of frost and ice.

3. All lights should be checked for proper operation. Cracked or broken lenses should be replaced and kept clear of caked snow or slush from the roadway.

Text of Palchiff letter to Byron

"Following is the text of a letter submitted by the Madison Board of Education to Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron, in specifying what steps the board of education plans to take to correct alleged irregularities in attendance reporting procedures."

Byron has contended that inaccurate reporting of absentees in the school district has led to the school district receiving considerably more state aid (based on average daily attendance of students) than that to which it was entitled.

The letter, from Superintendent of Schools John Palchiff, is designed to assure Byron that such inaccurate reporting will not occur in the future. The text follows.

"Dear Mr. Byron:

"I have received your letter of Sept. 30, 1980, and made it available to our board of education and attorney at that time. On Thursday, Oct. 2, at a regular board of education meeting, I referred to the letters and the following action took place.

"It was moved by Paul Bargiel, seconded by Richard Zeisler with the reading of the letters since the Board has read them and to place them on file. All voted 'aye.' Motion carried.

"It was moved by Paul

Bargiel, seconded by Billie Bosworth for the administration to look into the matter of the contents of the two letters received from Mr. Byron and to make contact with the Audit Section of the State Office of Education and receive guidelines to rectify the matter with the State Office of Education and Madison County State's Attorney office and then report back to the Board. Roll Call: Bargiel, aye; Bosworth, aye; Dymas, aye; Eaves, aye; Garrett, aye; Newsome, aye; Zeisler, aye; seven ayes. Motion carried.

"On Friday morning I contacted Ron Reguly, chief auditor from the State Board of Education, and made an appointment to see him at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7. My assistant superintendent, Wade James, and I met with Mr. Reguly and his assistant, Barney, to discuss the recommendations and guidelines necessary to implement which would improve the accuracy of the attendance record keeping.

"The following procedural changes were listed:

"1.—The absentee report maintained by classroom teachers and submitted to the attendance clerks for recording in the teachers registers should be retained by the district until the claim has been audited by the Illinois State Board of Education auditors.

"2.—In order to verify the accuracy of the attendance entries made by the attendance clerks, we request that the teachers' registers in the elementary attendance centers be signed by the teachers.

"3.—The attendance of students attending classes out of the district should be maintained in separate registers which indicate the district attending and the grade level of the pupil.

"4.—The attendance of students attending classes out of the district should not be recorded in the registers until the attendance reports are received from the district which the students are attending.

"5.—The attendance of students attending classes at Madison Community Unit School District No. 12 who are residents of other districts should be maintained in separate registers which indicate the district the students are from and their grade level.

"6.—We recommend that the superintendent inform principals, attendance clerks, and teachers of the necessity of maintaining accurate attendance records.

"7.—We recommend that the superintendent review the monthly attendance reports to determine if the rates of absences appear reasonable.

"I have informed all the principals and attendance clerks at a principals' meeting Thursday, Oct. 9, of the necessity of maintaining accurate attendance records. I will also inform all teachers of the same need.

"We feel that the implementation of the above recommended state guidelines will clear up the irregularities in the system of reporting.

"I will personally review the monthly attendance reports and request that you and the state auditors visit our district and check on the procedures implemented."

Palchiff said in the letter.

Palchiff also addressed himself to an allegation by Byron that the school board had violated state law in purchasing items for the new middle school, without competitive bidding.

Palchiff wrote: "As to your letter on bidding procedures, we are fully aware of the statute regarding the necessity of formal bidding of items in excess of $2,500. We have made a copy of your letter for our attorney."

"Your impression that our only failure to follow the statute was an advertising statute was an erroneous stemmed from a desire to equip and furnish the school as quickly and conveniently as possible (to meet a starting school deadline) was correct."

The lowest priced bids to meet our specifications were always accepted," Palchiff's letter concluded.

Byron has accepted the letter and said he plans to investigate, in the near future, if the district is using the new method of recording attendance to report all absences to the state.

North playoff hopes put on hold

GRANITE NORTH'S Rick Buer (35) and a Belleville Althoff defender both get ready for the ball Friday night in North's key 21-0 Gateway East Conference loss to the Crusaders at Memorial Field. The loss gave North a 5-1 overall mark and made the Steelers 2-1 in GEC play, while Althoff went to 6-1 and 4-0.

GRANITE CITY — Before Friday's all important conference hook-up between Granite North and Belleville Althoff, the Steelers' statistics made them the best defensive team in the area. But you couldn't tell Crusader quarterback Jeff Junker knew that fact.

The senior signal caller ran the option play to near perfection, while picking up 182 yards on the ground, guiding his squad to an impressive victory over North 21-0. The triumph by Althoff practically shuts the door on the Steelers, who fell to 5-1 overall and 2-1 in the Gateway East conference race. The Crusaders took the opening kickoff and drove down the field with relative ease. It was then the Steelers had to feel concern about their defensive crew. Moving from its own 26 yard line, Althoff went primarily to the run as they mowed North with yardage in big crunks. Junker got them within scoring range on a 21 yard burst, pushing the Crusaders to within the 20.

Althoff ate four minutes off the clock, using nine plays before they ran into trouble. Gambling on a fourth down and a foot, the Steeler defense suddenly came to life and stopped Junker's plunge up the middle. Captain Alan Schmidt and Jack Rainey put the bear hug on, giving North the football.

Whereas the defense came through, the offense couldn't. Four plays later, quarterback Dan Patterson attempted to put the ball up on a third and 16. Looking for Pat Muehl, Patterson delivered, but it wasn't Muehl who came up with ball. Althoff's Joe Lillis stepped in front and raced 26 yards for the touchdown.

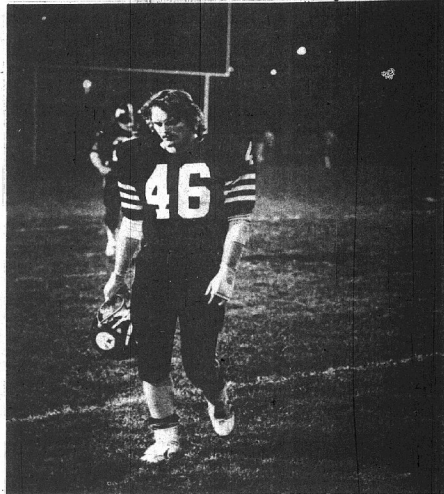

"We made a lot of crucial mistakes," said Steeler head coach Tom Wyronek. "You can't do that in a ball game like this." The mistakes continued to plague North as Patterson was intercepted four times throughout the course of the contest.

But it was Junker that proved to be a ton in North's side. On only their second possession, the Crusaders established a drive from their own 21 yard line to the Steeler 15. Most of that yardage was accumulated by Junker, who added a 61 yard run to put them in field goal range. However the attempt was missed from 32 yards out. "Junker is very capable of running the ball," said Althoff head coach Glen Schott. "He helped take the pressure off some of our other backs."

The Steelers really only managed to sustain two drives. Starting from its own 40 yard, North used ten plays and the remaining 5:15 on the second quarter clock to move within respectable distance of the goal line. At least close enough for Darren DePew's foot. But the half was ended when Althoff snatched its second interception on the evening.

North made some errors in the first half, but if it hadn't been for Althoff committing its share of mistakes, the Steelers could have easily been down 21-0. However, trailing by a touchdown gave North a fighting chance and they came out in the second half to the rectify the score.

The loss of Kevin Buchanan put the running cracks on Rich Buer and Darren

Cahokia runs all over Warriors in win

By DOUG IRVIN

CAHOKIA — Granite City South's sophomore quarterback, John Linhart, was sacked three times, passed for 11 out of 26 attempts, and only managed to get his offensive unit to gain 18 yards in Friday night's loss 8-0 loss to Gateway East Conference foe Cahokia. It was Cahokia's last home game and their homecoming. The loss dropped South to 0-7 overall and 0-4 in the Gateway East.

"We have to live with a young quarterback," said South's head coach Stan Wojcik. "He made some mistakes — we all did. I hope Linhart makes all of his mistakes this season, because he sure isn't going to make any in the next two years."

Earlier in the season, South lost to Cahokia at Memorial Field 13-8.

The star of the contest had to be Comanche Mike Jerome. The senior rushed for 200 yards in Friday's game.

With those yards, Jerome broke the 1,000 yard mark (1,062) for this season with two away games left on the schedule.

The Warriors, after having a total of minus four rushing yards at halftime, finished the 48 minute game with 18 yards from 16 carries. Most of those carries were by senior Mark Clark. In the first half, the only Warriors to carry the pigskin were Linhart and Clark. "Clark is the only guy I got in the 1," said Wojcik. "Cahokia is quick. They came right in on us. We've worked on our line all week. But when it came time — I swear to God, they're quick." Linhart had three passes intercepted, two of which were from the South version of the Roger Staubach shotgun. South gained 98 yards by completing 11 passes out of 26 times in the air. Cahokia tallied 268 yards to compare with South's 116. Junior quarterback Aaron Jones threw for three of six for 30 yards and Cahokia rushed 61 times for 238 yards.

Ten minutes and one second into the game, junior Stacy Blackman dove 24 yards across the yellow line for six points for the Comanches. Jones pitched to Jerome who passed to Calvin Myers for the two point conversion. That was all of the scoring.

"It was not lack of offense," said South's 0-7 coach. "They're just quick." The Warrior offense drove the ball enough for eight first downs to 13 for Cahokia.

Regulars rest, South wins

BELLEVILLE — What can you say about Granite South soccer? Even when most of the regular team the team doesn't play, the Warriors still manage to come up with another victory.

Playing that nonchalant ball could have cost them a game in Belleville Saturday. Fitted, not against a Vianney or a St. Mary's, but against Belleville Althoff, the Warriors got a big scare in the fourth quarter. However they still pulled out their nineteenth victory of the season 2-1. "They (Althoff) are not a bad club," said Warrior head coach Gene Baker. "but I was not happy with the game." Baker's sentiments were understandable as the Crusaders, only down by a goal at the half, came out for the final 40 minutes like a steam roller.

"We played the game differently this time against South than the first time," said Althoff head coach Larry Mank. "We were determined to keep the ball away from them whenever we could." And so they did, for a while. The opening minutes of the third quarter were played from goal line to goal line, which was contrary to most South matches. However, Tony Segobiano put an end to the determined Crusader drive. With a high clear to the left of the Althoff goal, Rich Moore found a head for the ball and pushed it in front of the goal mouth. In perfect position, Segobiano only had to tap it in. At the six minute mark of the third period, South had some breathing room, 2-0.

But that breath was to be a very short one. Looking at the shot total, 25-6 in favor of

Cougars hold on for 2-1 homecoming victory

Special to the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer team wrote a happy ending to the Cougars' annual homecoming festivities Saturday afternoon by defeating a very tough Quincy College squad 2-1.

Coach Bob Guelker's Cougars now hold an impressive 8-4-1 lead in the long and hard-fought series between the two collegiate soccer giants. The victory upped the Cougars' record to 8-5-2 and dropped the Quincy Hawks down to 5-6-2, the worst record in as many seasons for the losers.

Mike Twellman, junior back who has been switched from midfield, got the Cougars on the board at 19:16 on a picture-perfect play as Joe Howe and Leo Borneau teamed on the assist.

Twellman's go ahead goal, incidentally, was the first scored by the Cougar offense in 189 minutes of play. Or, after 31:13 of play against the No. 1 University of San Francisco Dons a week ago Friday. The Dons went on to beat SIUE, 2-1, in double overtime. Over that span of time, plus 90 minutes of regulation time and two 10-minute overtimes against Rockhurst College last Sunday, the Cougars couldn't score.

After Twellman had given the Cougars the lead, Pat Malloy headed in a beautiful pass from defender Tom Groark and SIUE appeared headed for a relatively easy victory over the Hawks.

But, the Quincy squad wasn't having any of that kind of thinking. And, playing tough, applied the pressure on the Cougar defense and could have, with any kind of break, broken the game wide open and won it after Mike Kossman, at 67:18 blasted in Quincy's only goal on an assist from Tim Clegg.

From that point on, the Cougars hung on for dear life. For example, at 38:10 and after SIUE had gone ahead, Kossman came within a fraction of an inch of deadlocking it when his header was stopped by Ed Gettemeier on a miracle "save" again. Again, just five minutes later, Kossman, who starred for Rosary in St. Louis and two years at Flo Valley, missed just over the cross bar.

A short while later, the Hawks' Mike Gallo, on a one-on-one against Gettemeier, was high over the bar. And, then the losers' best opportunity, this time by forward Steve Lux, went for naught when he was wide, again on an open goal situation. Gettemeier, who probably played the best game of his collegiate career made a fantastic "save" of a Mike Gallo shot at 70:10.

Of course, during this time, the Cougars wasted at least three very good chances to score: once by Matt Malloy midway in the first half and at 52:35 when he couldn't get his foot on a loose ball right in front of the Hawks' open goal. Tim

Showdown time for area prep powerhouses

COLLINSVILLE — It's that time again. Showdown in the old Collinsville dust bowl.

Granite City South will visit Collinsville tonight for a showdown between the top two prep soccer teams on this side of the river. Game time is set for about 8 o'clock at the "football bowl" located on Vandavia St. across from the old high school.

And of Sittin' Bull and Custer's to-do at Little Big Horn will have nothing on this one. The "Kahoks" are out for blood. Literally.

To put it straightforwardly, there's a bounty out on Robbie Mann's head. Add to that the fact that Collinsville already hates South with a passion, and it looks like fun, fun fun.

Mann, a South forward, played his first three years of prep soccer at Collinsville before moving to Granite City over the past summer.

His old teammates at Collinsville took issue with the move and have been looking forward to this one all season.

Collinsville, which has never beaten a South soccer team (they did beat O'Fallon High School in overtime before the North-South split), is undefeated against Illinois teams. The Kahoks' only losses of the season have been to Missouri teams. They want to keep that record intact. "Many of our junior varsity players who beat South last year are on the varsity this year," said Collinsville head coach Jim Stranz.

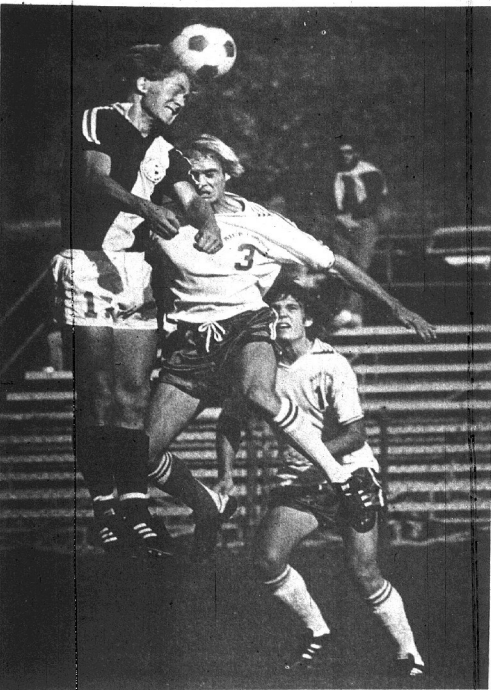

We feel we have a good chance in the matchups." Collinsville's losses were to Vianney (4-1), C.B.C. (5-2) and St. Thomas Aquinas (3-2), giving the Kahoks their 15-3 record. South only lost in a 19-1-1 season was 2-0 to defending Missouri state champion Rosary early in the season. The tie was an early-season one with Edwardsville. The two teams have many common opponents, but the only team which defeated and the other lost ton was Vianney. South beat the Missouri power 1-0 in the quarterfinals of the C.Y.C. Tournament.

South coach Gene Baker is likewise optimistic. But cautiously so. "Our goals are to see what we need to work on for the playoffs and to get out of the game with no injuries," he said. In many of the Collinsville South games of the past, bumps, bruises, sprains and other assorted ailments were dished out like candy. In short, they're rough. With a capital VERRY.

"We don't intend to be intimidated," said Baker, whose team refused to be intimidated by the Top pool players here

ST. LOUIS — Top amateur pool players from across the country will compete for $12,500 in cash and prizes and a national title at the Busch Pool League National Championship tourney, set for January 24-25 in St. Louis.

"We're extremely excited about hosting the Busch Pool League National Championship," said Busch

Marketing Manager Davis L. Morris. "And we think it's appropriate that the Busch Pool League Champion will be crowned in St. Louis, a BPL hotbed."

The single-elimination BPL National Championship will be held at a site to be announced following local Busch Pool League fall sessions which conclude Dec. 15. Any member Busch Pool League team that has won a local BPL session in 1980 is eligible to compete at the national tournament.

Competition at the Busch Pool League National Championship — sanctioned by the National Poolplayers League (NPL) — will be on 2 1/4 x 7 foot coin-operated tables. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top eight finishers. First place is worth $3,500.

North dumps Pattonville

By TOM SHOCKER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — When Bob Kehoe draws up Granite City North's soccer schedule, he likes to think the slate of games are competitive. That's why he occasionally ventures across the river to find some fine teams in the St. Louis area and Missouri in general.

However, after North's dominated Pattonville 3-1 here Friday, you could say the Steeler head coach was less than impressed.

"It was very disappointing for a Missouri team," said Kehoe. "I thought they would be a much more polished team than they were. I thought they would extend us or even beat us. They had good players, but they played as an individual staff and not as a team."

That individualism was clearly indicated in the final statistics as the Steelers doubled their opponents shot output 17-8. North's barrage of artful did not produce any results until Robert Szeles found the trick.

At the 12:51 mark of the second period North's Dan Ritchie found Szeles about 25 yards from the Pattonville goal. One of the strongest shooters on the team, according to Kehoe, Szeles let loose a bullet. The goalie, only managing to get a hand on the ball, was beaten without question.

"When I try and book a St. Louis team, I look to the toughest teams with a good idea that we would lose," said Kehoe. "I guess it didn't work out that way."

Although the Steelers kept Pattonville shut out until the final minutes of the game and looked like the better of the two squads, Kehoe was still not satisfied.

"I just didn't like the way we looked," said Kehoe. "We didn't move the ball as well as we could."

Moving the ball was what

Szeles tried to do throughout the contest. Succeeding with a score on his first attempt, he set up Eric Maas in the third quarter. A nifty pass to Maas just inside the penalty area was all that was needed as he tapped it in to close out the third period.

Pattonville didn't give Steeler goal keeper Rob Chapman much of a work out. Firing only eight shots at him, Chapman was called on to come up with just six saves. "If Pattonville was more of a disciplined team, they would have beat us," said Kehoe. "We looked like spectators on the field. We were kind of standing around and not getting any passing work. I think we could have won much easier and in fact by a much larger score."

The Steelers looked fine in their passing in the final quarter. Craig Burckley located Paul Barrington with floating 45 yard pass at the 10:24 mark. Barrington used a good side step move and beat the goalie with a shot, giving an insurance score. "Even though we won," said Kehoe, "you have to put your mind in the game 100 percent of the time. I don't think we had it all together. I was really upset with the guys and I told them so." You can't be too upset, this tune up victory puts the Steelers at 10-3-2.

South clinches conference

South unbeaten in GEC

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City South soccer team clinched its first-ever Gateway East Conference championship here Thursday night with an easy 2-0 victory over Cahokia.

South completely dominated the game, outshooting the Comanches 30-0 and taking a 15-0 edge in corner kicks. "It was a good win for us," said South coach Gene Baker. "Winning the conference was important to us."

South had already clinched at least a tie for the league championship, but the victory over Cahokia put the Warriors over the hump. The only team with a mathematical chance of tying South for the championship was Granite City North. But the Warriors would have had to lose to both Cahokia and Belleville. Although — two remote possibilities.

The Warriors, as indicated by the statistics, had the ball in Cahokia's end of the field all night. But time of possession doesn't put any points on the scoreboard. To get those, the ball has to go into the goal. South was only able to do that three times — and one of those goals was called back. "Our shot selection could have been a little better," said Baker. "But we were able to work on some other things besides scoring — things like passing."

South's first goal came off the foot of Richie Moore midway through the first quarter. He got an assist from sophomore Tony Segobiano at the 11:28 mark. It wasn't until the 55:05 mark that the second goal came. In between, came a goal from senior Tim Dix. He GRANITE CITY — Granite City South maintained its Gateway East Cross Country conference crown, here, Friday at Wilson Park. South finished with 24 points. Granite City North placed second with 43 and Edwardsville was third with 64 points. Cahokia did not run in the varsity race.

The top five runners from each team count towards team totals. The number of the place of which they finished is added together for the team total. The course measures three miles.

Steeler runner Bruce DeRuntz took top honors averaging 4:54 per mile for 3:04. Finishing in the number two spot was Warrior Jeff Taylor with a time of 14:58. In third-place was Tim Geisler of South with a 15:07 time.

Other Granite City times were: Ron Brown, South, 15:12; fifth, Jim McQuade, South, 45:16; sixth, Steve Darnott, South, 15:30; eighth, Harry Schafer, North, 15:55; ninth, Tim Bone, North, 15:58; 10th, John Hayes, North, 16:02; 12th, and Don Schafer, North, 16:11, 13th.

Other non-scoring athletes from Granite were: Greg Jackson, North, 16:21, 14th; Dave McLean, South, 16:32, 15th; Mike Robinson, North, 16:48, 16th; and Tony Zalingo, South, 17:35, 17th.

In the girls' division, South defeated North 25 to 40. Mary Bisch won the two-mile run for South with a time of 12:17.

"Our times were really good," said Dick Harmon, South's coach. "There were only 32 seconds difference between our first and fifth man. That shows how consistent we've been running."

"Our times show that we're moving up," said Harmon. "If McLean can shake this shin splint, we could have a shot of getting out of the District tournament."

The Districts are Saturday at North. The top four teams will advance. "Alton, East St. Louis, Lincoln, and somebody else will probably be the ones out," said South's mentor. "The fourth team will be between us, North, Belleville East and West."

Taylor had this to say, "We ran good a team. It's a team sport; but then again you're on our own. It's something that you can do by yourself." Taylor is a senior at South and has been running for four years. His goal is to compete in marathons, perhaps the St. Louis Marathon in February.

Local players making an impact on Dutchmen soccer

BELLEVILLE — Granite City products are making their presence known on the Belleville area College soccer team this fall. The Dutchmen, 10-2 of the season and ranked seventh in the latest National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) poll, have five former Granite prepsters on the roster.

Leading the way is freshman Bob Batey from Granite City North. Batey has played in ten games, started all ten, had 38 shots on goal, scored six times and one assist for a total of 13 points.

Perry Hartwick, another graduate of North, also has 13 points. He has started 11 games, had 18 shots on goal, scored five goals, and has added three assists.

Frank Schwartzkopf, a sophomore from Granite City South, has played in nine games, started three, had 10 shots on goal, scored two goals and added two assists for a total of six points.

Freshman Mark Jones, a graduate of Granite City North, has started 11 games, had one shot on goal, hasn't scored but has contributed three assists for three total points.

Freshman goalie Tracy Hickman from Granite North has played in six games, started two, made eight saves and has allowed one goal against. The Dutchmen won both games he started. BAC's next game will be at home, Saturday at 3 p.m. against State Fair Community College of Sedalia, Mo.

South, you would think the Warriors has matters well in hand. However, Althoff made good use of its limited fire power.

Putting the game within reach, the Crusaders got together their seal act to draw close. On an ensuing push up the field, a crowd formed in front of the Warriors goal. As the ball was headed into the mass of players, the Crusader's Mora prevented South from getting a foot on it. Using his head, he sent it past Warrior keeper Joe LeMaster, just to right of the post.

"Goals always pick you up," said Mark. "After that first goal, we knew we could play with them. They're not gods."

Any play they did, whether South was ready or not. Only a minute had elapsed before Althoff was on the march again. Storming up the field, the Crusaders set up another scoring attempt. A blast from the center of the penalty area found the back of the net and the score was apparently tied. But the goal was not to be, as the referee had called a hand ball on Althoff and the Warriors' hearts could move out from their mouths and back to normal functioning.

"Everyone wants to beat Granite City South," said Mark. "We never changed a thing from the first whistle to the last. This was our fourth game in four days and we were still ready for them."

Althoff gave the Warriors all they could handle and still managed to remain with a respectable record of 13-7-3.

South's initial score came from Dave Paz in the opening quarter. Segobiano was in on the act once again when he fooled the Crusader goalie who had come out for the ball. Segobiano dished it off to Paz, who rifled it in.

"They played a nice game today," said Baker. "I would have to single him out by himself. Along with Segobiano, the Warriors kept the Althoff goal keeper busy, as he collected 14 saves."

"I think Belleville wanted it a little more than we did," said Baker. "But I must say, that hand ball score had me a little scared. After coming off a busy weekend schedule, I told the kids they could be beat. We can be had by anyone. We had mental lapses, that's all. You have to pay the price for 80 minutes a game. I guess that's the mark of a good team, when you can have a bad game and still win."

Cougars

Gueller also saw two perfect headers of his gathered in by Quincy's standout keeper, Jim Harter.

Quincy's two best chances, though, came in the game's last two minutes: Mike Gallo at 1:45 chipped the large (2,600 fans) crowd when his shot apparently went in, but was instead, on the outside of the net. And, with just 15 seconds remaining on the clock, Mike Kossman was wide to the right on an open goal.

SUE outshot the Hawks, 20-21 and had a 9-4 edge in corner kicks. And Quincy's keeper, Harter, was forced to make 11 "saves" to five by Gettemeier. In the fouls department, the Hawks was charged with 37 violations to just 19 by the Cougars.

The Cougars will be at the University of Wisconsin next Saturday and at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle, Sunday. Then, there's the big one, the Bronze Box Classic Thursday, Oct. 30 against St. Louis University at Busch Memorial Stadium in a game starting at 7:30 p.m.

Grigsby grabs conference title

EDWARDSVILLE — The Grigsby Junior High School football Gators wrapped up their first undefeated Madison County Junior High Conference championship here last week with a 14-0 victory over previously unbeaten Edwardsville.

The Gators (6-0) got the winning touchdown with 3:30 remaining in the game when Shane Cole ran the ball in from the one yard line. Cole then passed to Scott Cant for the two point conversion to make it 14-0.

Edwardsville had taken a 6-0 lead early in the second quarter on a touchdown run, but failed to make the extra point conversion attempt. It was the first time any team had scored on Grigsby's defense this season. The Gators had gone 21 quarters without being scored upon.

Grigsby took the ensuing kickoff and moved it down the field to the Edwardsville 35 yard line. From there, Cole passed to Cant for the tying touchdown. The extra point attempt was no good. The score stayed that way until the Cole to Cant connection worked again late in the game.

The Gators thus finish up the game ahead of Edwardsville (5-1). Grigsby has a non-conference game remaining on its schedule Thursday at Jerseyville, beginning at 4 p.m.

Steamers announce moves

ST. LOUIS — Tracey Leiwake, Steamers' General Manager, announced today that the St. Louis Steamers have scheduled two exhibition games prior to the team's MISL opener at the Checkerboard on Thursday, Nov. 20, against the Baltimore Blast.

The first game will pit the Steamers against the Denver

Avalanche on Monday, November 3, at McNichols Sports Arena. Game time is 8:35 p.m. All proceeds will go to various local charities.

"We're particularly anxious to play this game," said Steamer Head Coach Pat McBride. "We'll be able to play at the higher altitude which will be helpful to our players since our first road game is at Denver on Nov. 22. In addition, it will be our first real test under game conditions."

On Nov. 9, the Steamers travel to Wichita to play the Wings at the Kansas Coliseum. Game time is 4 p.m. According to McBride, "We'll still be making decisions on players competing for spots on the team. This game will give us the opportunity to settle offensive lines and defensive pairings."

McBride went on to say that the late start of Nov. 20 was beneficial for two reasons. "The first, and most obvious," he said, "is that it gives us additional days of training. Secondly, we won't be without the services of our own U.S. National Team players (Tony Bellinger, Ty Kough, Steve Pecher, and Greg Makowski).

Playoffs

DePew. Buer took advantage of the opportunity and rushed for 86 yards on 17 carries, which included helping the Steelers set up a possible third quarter scoring attack. "Without Buchanan, it's hard to say how we would have done had he been in the lineup," said Wyrostek.

The Steelers put together their second longest drive as they marched from their own 25. With the ball on the Althoff 38, Patterson found Muehl in the end zone for a touchdown. However another costly mistake nullified the score when North was called for a penalty. They eventually were forced to punt the ball. "We were concerned about handling their running," said Scholt. "I didn't think we had the size or the strength to stay with them."

Althoff cut down the North ground attack practically in half. Averaging 270 yards for the year on the run, the Steelers only bruised out 183. DePew followed Buer with 37 yards while Doug Sheppard, taking over in Buchanan's spot, was held to 29. "We wanted a shutout," said Scholt. "It was extremely important for our defense." In fact, the Crusader defense held North to 171 total yards compared to 325 grinded out by Althoff.

Of that total yardage, 277 came on the ground and mostly on the legs on Junker. "We were very aware of the option play by Junker," said Wyrostek. "It wasn't a surprise play. They just ran it very well. I believe he had pretty many yards last week too. We didn't get the end play we needed."

Junker took advantage of that vulnerable end position once again and put the frosting on the cake so to speak. Capping off a drive that started on the Steeler 32, Junker took the ball from nine yards out for the final score, which came early in the fourth quarter.

In addition to his outstanding running performance, Junker also managed to complete three passes in six attempts. One of those went for an 18 yard touchdown reception in the third period.

Although North may have lost the battle, the war is certainly not over yet. "We still have a definite chance for a at-large bid," said Wyrostek. With the Steelers chances virtually eliminated in the Gateway East race, their overall record could still get them into the state playoffs if they win their remaining two games, next week against Granite City South and at Edwardsville the last week of the season.

APPEARING WEDNESDAY at City Temple Assembly of God, 4751 Maryville Road, will be Bridge, a contemporary gospel group which travels more than 100,000 miles each year, giving more than 350 concerts. The 14-member group, including five vocalists, has recorded six record albums and has appeared on numerous television programs, including NBC evening news. The concert will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the church and is open to the public.

150 at hair—style show

About 150 persons attended the annual hairstyle and fashion show, sponsored last week by the Elite Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Affiliate 33, at the Granite City Moose Lodge.

Proceeds from the event will be contributed to Shriner's Burns Center. The models' hair was styled by members of the affiliate and clothing fashions were presented by stores in the local community.

In the fantasy sequence, this year entitled "Heavenly Bodies," models were costumed to represent the Earth, Saturn, Neptune, Mars, Venus and the Sun. Their "fantasy" hairstyles, designed to match their apparel, were created by members of the affiliate's Hair Fashion Committee.

One segment of the show featured students from the Granite City School of Beauty Culture, who styled each others hair and modeled their own creations.

The students also assisted the affiliate by selling tickets and decorating the hall.

Refreshments were served, and prizes were awarded to Orville Pierce and Eric McIlroy, among others.

Jan and Linda Norris of Godfrey, members of the Illinois Hair Fashion Committee, were commentators for the show.

Serving as co-chairmen of the 1980 extravaganza were Naomi Gray and Loretta Brown.

Coterie hears administrator

Donna Marconi, assistant administrator at the Madison County Shelter Care Home in Edwardsville, was guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Ladies Coterie.

The group met at the First United Presbyterian Church with Mrs. Hugh Foster in charge of the program and introducing the speaker.

The Club Collect was read by Mrs. E. J. Griffith and Mrs. James Fox led the Pledge of Allegiance.

A memorial tribute to Mrs. Mark Pickett, an associate member who died in September, was conducted by Mrs. Clarence Boettiger.

In the business session, directed by Mrs. Walter Klein, vice president, plans were made for a Christmas party and a budget for the current year was approved.

Mrs. William Cariss was the hostess and served a dessert course.

At the Nov. 20 meeting, Mrs. Marvin Eddington will be in charge of an auction program, with Mrs. Jack Comer serving as hostess.

Others attending Thursday's meeting were Mesdames T. C. Aufderheide, Keith Edwards, Hugh Foster, James Fox, David Friendman, Fred Haug, Floyd Henley, Ray Horn, David John, Charles Kohl, C. L. Louis, B. S. Miller, Alfred Pape, E. F. Reiske, A. C. Stoeber, and Dawson Wade.

Hilltoppers meet

Mrs. Eileen Anderson, a guest, presented a musical interlude for members of the Hilltoppers Senior Club who met last week at St. John United Church of Christ.

A prayer was offered by Mrs. Lillian Anderson and the Pledge of Allegiance was recited, followed by a songfest.

Mrs. Etta Locklear read several poems recited to Columbus Day and the Halloween holiday.

"Get well" cards were signed for Fred Clark and Ernest Adams and several activities planned at the Granite City Senior Citizens Center were reviewed.

The group presented a $25 cash gift to the Rev. James Mory prior to him leaving the community, it was announced.

Receives card from President

Mrs. Mary Menaki, 2306 Anchorage Drive, received a birthday greeting card last week from President Jimmy Carter.

The honoree, who celebrated her 90th birthday on Oct. 10, was "delighted with the presidential greeting," according to a neighbor.

Mrs. Menaki is a long-time resident of Granite City.

Chapter KU to attend meeting

Chapter KU of the PEO Sisterhood was entertained last week in the home of Mrs. JoAnn Burck, 2586 Spaulding Ave.

Mrs. Hulda Davis, president, conducted the business session during which plans were made by several members to attend a reciprocity meeting Oct. 28. The event will take place in Alton at the Metropolitan United Methodist Church, Mrs. Davis said.

Ritual work was accomplished prior to a dessert course being served by the hostess.

Among those present were Mesdames Ruth Ann Bartels, Fay Carlisle, Bessie Coolidge, Velma Gruen, Mary Hemphill, Barbara Houston, Ila Maxton, Jean Maxwell, Ruth McCarty, Elizabeth Rea, Mary Jo Thrane and Eunice Witter. Mrs. Evelyn Maxwell will host the chapter Oct. 27 when Mary Frances Waller will speak on the topic, "The Roots of Cotley College."

Churchmen to hear Bob Hardy

Bob Hardy, KMOX radio newsmen, will be featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Churchmen's Fellowship of the Illinois South Conference of the United Church of Christ. Udeli Wehling, chairman, said the meeting will be held at Salem Church, Alhambra, on Sunday, Nov. 2.

Registration will begin at 4 p.m., with the meeting scheduled to run from 4:30 to 8 p.m. Hardy will appear on the program following the 6:15 banquet.

Special music will be presented during the afternoon by the Hand Bell Choirs of Salem Church and by the Men's Chorus of Grantfork United Church of Christ.

Banquet reservations at $4 each are to be made, with Orville Sander, Route Two, Alhambra, 62001, by Oct. 27. Both men and women are invited to attend.

Open house at Maryville School

Maryville School will hold its annual open house and a Parent-Teacher Association meeting at 7 p.m. today.

Guest speaker will be Wren Collins, curriculum coordinator for Granite City School District 9.

Collins will show slides and discuss the $2,900,000 renovation school bond issue which will be presented for voter approval Saturday, Oct. 25.

Parents of all Maryville School pupils are being urged to attend.

Wilson School events

A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held at Wilson School at 7 p.m. Tuesday and an open house is planned at the school from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m. Thursday.

At Tuesday's PTA session, Gilbert Wainsley, principal of Granite City High School North, will be guest speaker. The administrator will discuss the Granite City School District's $2,900,000 renovation bond issue, to be offered for voter approval Saturday, Oct. 25. Questions may be asked following his presentation.

Parents of all Wilson pupils are invited to visit the school during open house Thursday night. A bake sale will be sponsored by the PTA at the same time.

MARRIED. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edward

Gaudreault, whose wedding took place at St. Mary Roman Catholic Church in Madison. The bride is the former Beth Ann Fetter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. (Rose P.) Fetter, 1715 Garfield Ave.

Gaudreault-Fetter wedding at St. Mary

Miss Beth Ann Fetter became the bride of Richard Edward Gaudreault in a double ring ceremony at St. Mary Roman Catholic Church in Madison.

The 2 o'clock service was performed on the afternoon of Oct. 4 by the Rev. Conrad Motola before an altar adorned with bouquets of early autumn blooms.

Wedding music was provided by Laura Compton, soloist, Larry Heagy on guitar and Helen Ann McGarrhan at the organ.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. (Rose P.) Fetter, 1715 Garfield Ave.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. (Peggy J.) Gaudreault, 1716 Courtenay Blvd.

For her wedding, the former Miss Fetter chose a full length gown of white peau de soie, designed with a sculptured neckline and angel-wing sleeves. The softly draped skirt flowed into a chapel train.

She wore a mantilla headpiece to secure a long veil of bridal illusion, edged in Chantilly lace, and her flowers were blue silk roses and white carnations, laced with white baby's breath, stephanotis and blue satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Don Anderson and the bridesmaids were Mrs. David Staggs and Miss Theresa Gaudreault.

Their long dresses of baby blue peau were sleeveless with spaghetti straps at the shoulders and complemented with lace jackets in a matching shade of blue.

They wore picture hats on their hair and carried lace fans decorated with blue and white silk roses and baby's breath.

The flower girl was Michelle Fetter, 8-year-old sister of the bride, whose long satin frock in an off-white shade resembled a bridal gown. She held a parasol filled with flowers.

Norman Hopper served the groom as best man and the groomsmen were Tony Buckingham and Ed Fetter, the bride's brother.

Keith Gaudreault, a cousin of the groom, was the ring bearer. Seating the guests were David Staggs, Virgil Flowers and Mark and Bob Buckingham.

Immediately following the ceremony, about 400 relatives and friends greeted the couple at reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Granite City.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Pantara's Pizza.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple is now at home at 2016 Harris St., Madison.

The bridegroom is employed at American Steel Foundries.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS

By RUSS WALKER

The opal is the birthstone for October. It was once thought that an opal could improve the vision of its owner while clouding the vision of enemies. For this reason, opals were once very popular with thieves.

The opal is now very popular with honest people because of its beauty. Stop in and see our opals and other fine jewelry.

WED. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Anthony Noud, who were married in a candlelight ceremony at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church. The bride is the former Kimberly Renee Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Carlene) Miller, 157 Sandy Shores Drive, Arlington Heights.

Noud-Miller nuptials at St. Margaret Mary

Candlelight illuminated the chancel of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church for the wedding of Kimberly Renee Miller and Stephen Anthony Noud on Sept. 12.

The Rev. Terry Shea heard the couple exchange their nuptial vows at 7 o'clock in the evening before an altar decorated with arrangements of white and yellow mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Carlene) Miller, 157 Sandy Shores Drive, Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert (Caroline) Noud of Granite City are the bridegroom's parents.

The program of wedding music for the double ring ceremony was provided at the organ by Sister Mary Therese.

Musical selections included "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," "We've Only Just Begun" and "Theme from Love Story."

The former Miss Miller was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a floor length gown of white tulle over organza, accented with a fitted bodice adorned with appliques of Venice lace and featuring a high neckline, sheer yoke and cap sleeves. From the natural waistline, the full pleated skirt, hemmed with lace, merged into a chapel train.

On her hair, she wore a Juliet cap securing a double fingertip veil of bridal illusion, sprinkled with matching lace appliques and bordered in lace.

She carried a bouquet of yellow silk roses and carnations, interspersed with lilies of the valley, stephanotis and trailing white streamers.

Mrs. Clyde (Vicki) Walker, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. She selected a full length gown of yellow peau de soie designed with a round neckline, short capelet sleeves and an accented pleated skirt.

She wore a matching picture hat, encircled with veiling, and held a bouquet of yellow and white silk roses and carnations.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Albert Noud Jr., as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller selected a long gown of qiana in Grecian blue, featuring a draped overlay of the same fabric, creating a cape effect.

Mrs. Noud appeared in a full length silk gown in a mint green shade accented with a matching lace jacket.

Both mothers had corsages of roses and carnations and wore beige accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, friends and relatives honored the newlyweds at a reception at Charlie's Restaurant.

The groom's parents entertained at a dinner at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant in Madison after the church rehearsal.

After a wedding trip to the Lodge of the Four Seasons at the Lake of the Ozarks, the couple left for Fort Hood, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

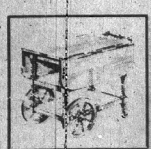

Private Noud joined the service in May 1980 and recently was assigned for a period of time as a recruiter's assistant at the Army's recruiting station in Granite City.

He is a 1975 graduate of Granite City High School North and was employed at American Steel Foundries prior to enlisting.

The former Miss Miller graduated this year from Granite City High School North and was employed at the R-Mart Store.

She is a former active member of Explorer Post 10-33, sponsored by the Granite City Police Department.

Tulip bulbs arrive here

More than 6,000 tulip bulbs have arrived in Granite City from Holland and are available to the public from the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

About 170 packages of bulbs, with 20 tulip bulbs in each, remain to be sold from the total shipment, Mrs. Jo Meyer, chairman of the Beautification Committee, said Friday.

The bulbs cost $5 per package and may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce office, 1831 Delmar Ave., or by calling the Chamber at 876-4400.

All those purchasing a package of bulbs will receive a colored brochure describing the method and time for planting the various species of bulbs.

If sold separately, each of the special bulbs is worth more than 60 cents, Mrs. Meyer said.

Rose cuttings at Wilson Park

For the first time in several years, the Granite City Park District again will offer local residents free rose cuttings.

The cuttings will be distributed on a first come, first serve basis at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the Wilson Park flower gardens.

Actress performs for club

Birdine Groshong, retired speech and drama club teacher at Roxana High School and an active community theatre actor and director, was the guest speaker at the October meeting of the Nameoki Recreation Center.

Eighteen members were present and were served a desert luncheon by Doris Greve, Ella Mae Harsh and Mildred Hess.

President Ethel Beeler called the meeting to order and the members recited the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Groshong was then introduced by program chairman Lucinda Huck. Mrs. Groshong presented a cutting from the play "Crown Matrimonial," based upon the lives of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. She and her husband are active in the Little Theatre of Alton.

The president gave a presentation of the 22nd District Board meeting, which she attended recently, and Irma Taylor gave a report on sales from the Holiday Treasure Kit to raise funds for scholarships.

The club then welcomed a new member, Lisa Fanning.

FIND MISSING RINGS

Four rings reported stolen Sept. 15 from the home of Susie Valencia, 3 Charlestown, were found by the family in a dresser drawer, police were notified Friday.

GC girl attendant to queen at college

Homecoming 1980 will be celebrated on the McKendree College campus beginning today, with a full week of activities slated.

"Time in a Bottle," theme for the week-long festivities, will be highlighted by a parade, soccer game and coronation dinner dance Saturday.

Traditionally the most anxious moment of the weekend, the homecoming queen coronation will take place during the dance Saturday evening at Augustine's Restaurant, Belleville.

Retiring queen Tracy Zimmerman of Fairfield will crown the new queen. The seniors are vying for the title of queen — Cheryl Potthast of Pierson, Janet Klein of Pierson and Marchelle Mueller of Belleville.

Attendees on the homecoming court include junior Katie Manion of Marine, Beth Gollinger of Granite City and Marcia Morgan of Chatham, a freshman.

Miss Gollinger, representing the sophomore class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ellebrecht Jr. of Granite City.

A graduate of Granite City High School South, she is a member of Alpha Omega sorority and Student Government. She is a psychology major.

Part-time BAC teachers sought

Belleville Area College is looking for teachers — not full-time teachers, but people with master degrees and willing to teach one or two courses in their own neighborhood.

BAC, in keeping with the community college philosophy of designing programs to fit the needs of students, has begun some dual enrollment programs with high schools in the district, enabling high school students to register for college level classes concurrently with their junior or senior years.

Dean Gordon Stone also has announced increased college credit courses to be taught in the extension centers to "help students conserve gasoline and save the price of commuting."

Professional people, housewives, and retired people with master degrees who are interested in teaching a class or two for Belleville Area College in a local setting are being encouraged to send a request for application form to Personnel Director James Burket, BAC, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville 62221.

Some teaching experience is preferred but not required. Areas where there are potential openings are business, English, geography, geology, political science, philosophy, art, music (both vocal and instrumental), history, education, foreign languages (French, Spanish, and German), speech, physical education, health, biology, physics, mathematics, chemistry, psychology and sociology.

DISCUSS DIVORCE

IMPACT ON CHILDREN
The first fall meeting of the Early Childhood Education Organization will be held tomorrow night at SIVE. The group is composed of parents, teachers, students, and day-care providers.

William Sherwood, an attorney from Bellalia, will discuss the implications of divorce and custody suits and the effects they have on children. A 15-minute videotape, "The Breakup," will be shown. The session is free of charge and open to the public and will be held in Building III from 7:30 to 9:30.

HALLOWEEN BALL

A Halloween Ball for Granite City senior citizens will be held Wednesday, Oct. 29, at the township building, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The seniors are invited to wear costumes, but it is not required. There will be prizes for the most original, ugliest and prettiest costumes. An orchestra will be provided for dancing until 9:30 p.m. Nelson Hagmann, supervisor of Granite City Township, is host for the event.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER at "Women Involved Day," Saturday, Oct. 25, at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave., will be Jean McCarrey of Chicago, a past president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through Wednesday by calling 931-2626 after 5 p.m. The day-long program is being sponsored by the Granite City Business and Professional Women Club for the third year.

Benefit ball Oct. 25

The 10th annual benefit ball, sponsored by Granite City Society for Crippled Children, is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 25, at Cranston Home.

Workshop on compensation for workers

The first in a series of workers' compensation workshops will be held from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in Edwardsville at the Southern Illinois University Center, in the Meridian Room.

The workshop will cover such subjects as what to do in the case of a work-related injury; how to improve communications among the parties involved; how to effectively pursue your interests in the case of a dispute; and the rights and responsibilities of employees and employers.

Workshops speakers will include Rebecca Schneiderman, chairman of the Illinois Industrial Commission (IIC); Warren Eagle, an attorney with a firm that frequently represents employees; Robert Every, an insurance company claims manager; and Thomas Nyhan, an attorney with a firm that frequently represents employers.

The workshop registration fee, which includes lunch, is $10 and registrations will be accepted at the door starting at 8 a.m.

The ICC is sponsoring the workshops in cooperation with the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and the Illinois Department of Labor.

Other workshops are planned for Springfield Nov. 20 and Elgin Dec. 16.

Parkview PTA endorses bonds

B.J. Davis, superintendent of the Granite City public schools, addressed the second meeting of The Parkview School PTA last week on the upcoming school bond issue to be voted on Saturday.

Following the speech and presentation by Davis, the PTA adopted a resolution in support of the bond issue.

A Halloween program was presented by the fifth grade students, under the direction of Cathy Cassy, Phyllis Talley and Mary Jane Foster.

Also discussed during the meeting were the Oct. 23 open house, to be held in conjunction with a book fair featuring a display from the Granite City Public Library.

HURT IN ACCIDENT

Tina Adams, 18, of 2406 State St. sustained forehead abrasions and left leg cuts in a traffic accident. She was released after treatment at 11 a.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Bob Thomas, president of the organization announced the dinner dance will feature music by the Silvertones.

Tickets, costing $20 per couple, may be purchased by calling Mercer Mortuary, 876-4321. Tickets include the cost of dinner, beer and setups.

Dinner will be served from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. There also will be an auction of a television and antique items after the dinner.

Crash damages car, truck, light and 2 buildings

Christie Miller, 29, of 2201 Nameoki Road was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after her northbound auto knocked down a traffic light on the west side of Nameoki Road and then veered into a parked Township Television truck on the east side at 7:15 p.m. Friday.

The Miller car struck the front corner of the home of Ward Wood, 2708 Nameoki, and the truck was thrown against the southwestern corner of a building owned by Frank Townsend at 2710 Nameoki.

An auto vacuum cleaner stolen from the Miller vehicle after the crash was recovered by police at the home of a youth, 16 years old and who was charged with theft.

The motorist was charged with reckless driving and driving with a suspended license. She was rushed to the hospital by ambulance, and tow trucks removed the auto and truck.

Released from treatment at 1:15 p.m. Saturday, she was booked on the charges and then was freed on $100 cash bond.

ARREST BY DEPUTIES

Investigating a report that a man had threatened to obtain a gun and return to Ray's Tavern, 608 McCambridge Ave., Madison County sheriff deputies saw a suspect in the 1900 block of Sken Street and chased him through several yards, charging Junior Lee Puckett, 31, Wood River, with battery and resisting arrest. Deputies said force had to be used, and Puckett was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and charged him with multiple bruises. It is alleged that he earlier struck two patrons at the tavern. No gun was found.

BATTERY ALLEGED

Donald R. Harris, 28, of 4406 Kirkpatrick Homes was charged with battery at 7:35 p.m. Thursday after allegedly striking the jaw of Peggy Harris, of 3403 Kirkpatrick, at another apartment in the 3400 block. He was fined $215 on Friday.

Cracks are costly. Caulking is cheap.

Houses tend to settle as they grow older. When they do, tiny cracks open around door and window frames. A few of these cracks let as much cold air into your house as a partly opened window. And there goes the heating bill!

Sealing those cracks with caulking is an easy, inexpensive, do-it-yourself job. A caulking gun is best, but you can also use caulking strips you press into place with your fingers or a putty knife. Your hardware dealer or home center has the easy-to-use materials you need, plus complete instructions. And right now is the best time of year to caulk your home and stop those costly air leaks. Caulking, plus adequate insulation and weatherstripping, will pay off in energy and dollars saved. For more information, call our Energy Use Advisor.

Where to caulk on the outside of your home:

- between window frames and siding
- where one siding strip meets another
- at corners, where wall meets wall
- around outside water faucets and electric outlets
- between chimney bricks and siding
- around outside vents
- where the wall meets the soffit

Rape prosecutions cited in campaign

Don W. Weber, Madison County Republican nominee for state's attorney, has assailed the procedures followed by his opponent regarding the crime of rape.

"The current practice of requiring rape victims to undergo a demeaning—and, by implication, accusatorial—lie detector test will cease the first day I am in office," Weber says.

"All rape complaints will be thoroughly and compassionately investigated and screened by a team of trial-experienced prosecutors. Where a charge of rape is brought, it will not be negotiated except for a plea of guilty to the charge.

"If the defendant alleges there was consent, but is found guilty of the charged offense, the trial evidence will be evaluated by the original screening team.

"If it is indicated that he has subjected a rape victim to the humiliation of a second rape, a rape-by-perjury, the matter will be presented to the grand jury. A perjury indictment will be prosecuted as a sentence consecutive to the original conviction.

"Indifference to rape victims will not be tolerated.

"And the office will cease recommending probation for residential burglaries.

"We will act to isolate the repeat juvenile offender and remove him from his victims for more than a few months.

"Even assuming that juvenile offenders can be rehabilitated and dissuaded from criminal orientation, there still must be a cutoff point where a particular experiment is considered a failure, and scarce resources are freed for more promising cases," Weber comments.

Nicholas G. Byron has been state's attorney for the past eight years and is the Democratic nomination in March to seek a third four-year term in next month's election.

Byron attributes rival candidacies to the fact that others are "looking for jobs," and discounts a Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission report that was critical of his office.

Byron says he personally suggested much of what proved to be the recommendations of the report, which he described as a "boilerplate" effort. He questions whether the consultants who made the study knew much about prosecution.

Byron asserts that "Madison County is sending more people to the penitentiary in one month than many counties do in a year. Our approach is working."

He adds, "It's ridiculous for anyone to say I have gone state, but this job has taken the smile off my face. It's given me a different outlook on life."

"This is no job for the young or inexperienced, or for the politician. I seek reelection on a political ticket, but I try hard to keep politics out of the office."

Regarding the frequent granting of probation for initial felony convictions, the state's attorney says, "Even when there is a series of offenses, the law considers them to be only one in certain circumstances. Then the sentence has to be for only one crime, which can carry a presumption of probation as a first offense."

"A conviction of a second offense will lead to jail or prison time, however. There is no question at all about that."

Even those placed on probation are being punished. There is a lot of punishment involved that people don't realize. There is a stigma on someone convicted as a felon, and it sticks with him or her the rest of his or her life. This is something that young people should think about."

Clean up gardening equipment

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Adviser

The gardening season is about over and your garden equipment should be cleaned and winterized after the final usage.

Proper care will extend the life of the equipment, and gardening will be easier next spring with clean, sharp tools and easy-to-start engines.

Hand tools should be cleaned so that they are free of dirt and rust. A putty knife and wire brush are good tools for this.

Coat all exposed metal with oil for protection against winter moisture. Then store in a dry, sheltered area.

Gasoline engines on your power equipment need special care. After the last use of the season, drain the gasoline from both the tank and carburetor.

The easiest way to drain the carburetor is to drain the tank, then let the engine run long enough to drain the carburetor. Drain the oil from the crankcase and refill with clean oil.

Grease and oil all fittings. Remove the sparkplug and add a few drops of oil in the hole. Turn the flywheel or crankshaft a few times to distribute the oil and grease on all surfaces. These procedures will protect all parts from winter-time corrosion.

Sprayers should be washed and dried thoroughly. Make sure all hoses, pipes and valves are drained. Then coat all moving parts with oil before storing in a dry location.

A final step in preparing equipment for next year's gardening is to make sure all needed repairs now. You will then be ready to garden on the first nice day of spring next year.

Review area road planning

A monthly meeting of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's Regional Forum will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22, at the Gateway office, Suite 1200, located at 112 N. 4th St., St. Louis.

The regional Forum will review an Urban Development Action Grant for restoration and rehabilitation of Union Station, and the proposed construction of Route A, an access roadway to the new General Motors plant in St. Charles County.

The Forum will also take action on an update of the 1981-85 transportation improvement program, as well as the annual element for 1981. The TIP designates transportation projects throughout the region which are to be started within a five year period.

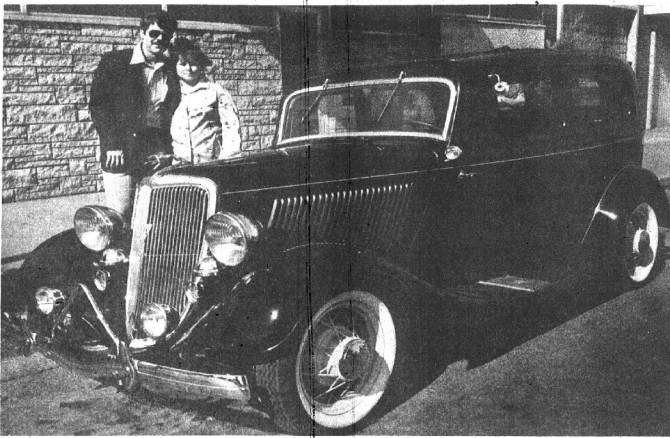

The Regional Forum is the Gateway Council's primary citizen advisory body. It provides public input on plans and studies that will affect the economic and physical development of the metropolitan area.

Gateway is the regional planning agency for a two-state, eight-county area and regularly undertakes major plans and studies in highway development, mass transit, water and air quality, and housing. The Council also reviews requests for grants assistance to coordinate local planning efforts with areawide goals.

The meeting is open and the public is invited to attend. Quad-City individuals wishing to discuss a particular item on the agenda at the meeting are to contact the Gateway office at 274-2750, Extension 299, at least 24 hours prior to the meeting.

NORTH REGISTRATION

For the next three weeks, beginning today, North students will register for the second semester of the 1980-81 school year. The counselors will be going into English and speech classes to discuss and enroll the students. Parents are being asked to discuss with their child their schedules for second semester, as there will be no changes after the students have made their choices. Parents are invited to contact the counselors if they have any questions.

FULLY RESTORED 1934 Ford Sedan, valued at $15,000 was won by Mrs. Debra (Risner) Battoo, pictured above with her husband Scott. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Risner, Rural Route 2, Mrs. Battoo, formerly of Granite City, and now living with her husband in O'Fallon, filled out a coupon at the Steak and Shake Restaurant, 9700 Natural Bridge, St. Louis, during a sales promotion in July. She was notified by certified letter that she had won the auto and she and her husband took delivery of the car last week. They plan to keep the auto.

Smith operating at loss

A substantial drop in the sale of automobile and truck frames and the closing of the Granite City frame manufacturing plant caused A. O. Smith Corp. to operate at a loss in the third quarter.

L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, said last week in Milwaukee.

The company reported sales in the third quarter of $152,253,000 and a loss of $6,821,000, or $1.39 per share, compared with sales in the third quarter last year of $180,661,000 and profits of $1,499,000, or 31 cents per share.

Included in the third quarter results is a $7.8 million after-tax provision for the closing of the Granite City auto frame plant, which ended production activities in September.

For the first nine months of 1980, A. O. Smith had a loss of $517,530,000 and a loss of $8,904,000, or $1.82 per share, compared with sales of $648,774,000 and profits of $22,352,000, or $4.54 per share, before an extraordinary charge of $6,000,000, or $1.22 per share, in the first nine months of 1979.

The company would have had a profitable third quarter, Smith said, except for the $7.8 million loss resulting from the decision to close the local plant.

The decision was made, he said, because the full-length, separate frames that were produced here will be eliminated from the General Motors vehicles using them beginning with 1983 models.

Until then, some of the frames which had been scheduled for manufacture in Granite City will be produced in the company's Milwaukee plant.

In addition, the company's

Automotive Division has been affected by the drop in sales of intermediate and large cars and trucks, the principal markets for frames manufactured by Smith. Dollar volume in the division was down 30 percent in the third quarter.

Soroptimist training and youth awards

The Metro East Soroptimist International Club is announcing that applications are available for both the Youth Citizenship Program and the Training Awards Program.

Youth citizenship awards applications are available in high schools at the counselor offices. These awards are open to any senior who will graduate next spring.

The club has set the deadline for receipt of completed applications as Dec. 15.

All applications from this area will be judged and the one judged best will be forwarded to the south central region for final judging.

Each region presents a $1,000 award and the national winner receives an additional $1,500. All applications are judged solely on citizenship.

The Training Awards Program is for women, preferably over 30 years of age, who are the head of household, or have a family financially dependent on them and need training or retraining to move to a higher-level skilled job.

These forms must also be completed and returned before Dec. 15.

The best of the local applications will be submitted to the region. Each region gives two $1,250 awards.

Training applications can be obtained by calling Mrs. Elina Hoover, 876-0606.

Judge Goldenhersh visits Granite City

By MICK STRANGE
Chief Justice Joseph H. Goldenhersh of the Illinois Supreme Court visited the chambers of Circuit Judge Charles W. Chapman in the Granite City Hall last week.

More than 100 attorneys, Democratic political leaders, judges and court officials were on hand to visit and show their support for Goldenhersh, who is seeking a retention vote in the November election.

Goldenhersh became a justice of the Illinois Supreme Court in 1970 and Chief Justice in 1979. He will be on the ballot in 37 Southern Illinois counties, including Madison County.

"I think I can make a valuable contribution to the people in the state in the time permitted me to serve."

"This is the last term I can see as the retirement age is 70, by law, and I think this is a good law," Goldenhersh said.

"I, of course, cannot take all of the credit, but I can take part of the credit that the Supreme Court docket is current," he said.

Born in East St. Louis on Nov. 2, 1914, he attended elementary schools there and graduated from East St. Louis High School. He graduated from Washington University Law School in 1935 with a bachelor of law degree.

He practiced law in East St. Louis until February, 1936, when he became a judge of the Appellate Court of Illinois in December 1964. He holds memberships in numerous professional societies and associations and has authored more than 200 legal opinions. Judge Goldenhersh also has been active on the board of Christian Welfare Hospital, the St. Clair County Heart Association and the United Way.

He is also a member of the Masonic Lodge of East St. Louis, Mississippi Valley Consistory, Almad Shrine Temple, and the Royal Order of Jesters.

ALCOHOL DAMAGES BRAIN
A case in which alcohol has permanently damaged the brain follows: Upon entering high school a teenager was tested as having an I.Q. of 130—that puts him in the upper 2%. Like many kids he decided to experience different things. . . possibly out of curiosity. In his junior year he began drinking. It became an everyday occurrence. In his senior year he was retested, as his grades had started dropping. The results of the test indicated that his I.Q. had dropped to 90. The United Way is working to help fight this dread disease right here in our town and thanks to generous and Fair Share Givers - will continue.

PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE WHEN THEY REALLY NEEDED HELP

What do you do when a Disaster from fire occurs and finances are short or simply not there? Check with the United Way supported Red Cross agency. Recently a female employee in a local industry had a trailer and all belongings burn up. Although she was working, she suddenly found herself and her school age daughter without any clothing or shelter. Through the "one to four" family United Way "Burn-out" project, immediate help—clothing, food and rent was available.

HELP FOR CANCER VICTIM IN NEED OF EMERGENCY TRANSPORTATION

The wife in a local family—living and working in this community—has a brain tumor requiring daily colbat treatments. She is not able to drive herself and husband cannot take the necessary time away from his work for the thirty days treatment required. The United Way supported Red Cross agency is providing transportation to the hospital for this cancer victim via a Red Cross Volunteer who takes her for treatment and waits with her until ready to return home.

Many observers feel Fahner already has matured in his job, just two months after he was appointed by Gov. James Thompson, his former boss in the Chicago U.S. attorney's office.

Fahner has reaffirmed the attorney general's role in two areas that his predecessor, William Scott, emphasized during his 11 years in office—environmental and consumer protection.

And, Fahner said, "We want to get his office moving as an arm of the criminal justice system. Stepping into Mr. Scott's shoes enhances the challenge of this job. Any attorney worth his salt wants to see that he can do it."

Fahner's challenge, however, is double-barreled. In addition to administering the office, Fahner pledged to Thompson that he would run for election to the office if appointed. Although he has helped with other statewide campaigns, he has never run for office himself.

"It's a big jump from being a private attorney to running for a statewide office," Fahner admits. And, judging from his appearance in the statehouse, he has fought and won several legal battles against the Earthline hazardous waste landfill.

Fahner quelled the fears of community residents that he may not be as committed as Scott to the fight, pledging to continue the state's strong support for their case.

Fahner's pledge was not made just out of deference to Scott or to Cody, who, as the state's chief attorney in the case, convinced the circuit and appellate courts to order the removal of the hazardous material buried there.

"It's fair to assume I'll have primary opposition, but I have two years to establish a record to run against," he said.

That's more than my opponent will have. If I can't prove I should be elected by the voters, I don't deserve to keep the job. I'm looking forward to the adventure."

Fahner served Thompson as chief of both the criminal and civil divisions and the official corruption sections

Thompson supports state pay commission

By RAY SERATI

SPRINGFIELD—Legislation to form a state pay commission which would set salaries for the constitutional officers, legislators and judges has received a boost from Gov. James R. Thompson.

The bill to form such a commission passed the House last spring by a vote of 89-59. It was sent to the Senate on May 14 and it remained there in the Senate Rules Committee. It will be up to this committee to either send the bill along for further action, or it could be held there for its death when the present General Assembly goes out of business.

Thompson has said the first direct for cabinet officials can be justified because many of the top quality people serving in government may leave.

"We either want quality government and are willing to pay for it or we don't," Thompson said.

He feels that if nothing is done in this area of pay for this level of state government, Illinois will lose some top administrators in the next two years.

The furor over pay raises for state officials has been raging since 1978. Pay hikes were granted to state officials, lawmakers and judges during the 1978 session and the public outcry was heavy. Finally after a great deal of wrangling pay raises were approved. But in many areas of the state the dust over the raise war never really settled and it was felt in the March primary election.

Thompson said he was discussing salary pay proposals with the state's top administrators now so that if action is taken in the upcoming vote session everyone would know because of his prior announcement.

He maintains that if action is not taken before the new General Assembly comes into being, some cabinet-level or sub-cabinet-level officials won't get a pay boost for two years. Illinois law prohibits salary hikes in the middle of a term.

At the present time the proposed pay commission apparently would handle the pay for the constitutional officers, legislators and judges. But this could be amended to cover the cabinet officers as well.

Thompson said he was discussing salary pay proposals with the state's top administrators now so that if action is taken a commission was formed to make recommendations for possible salary hikes at the state level. The commission made its recommendation apparently the recommendations were not followed. The General Assembly went on its way and the plan for a salary commission was put on the shelf. When the public outcry was felt over the 1978 pay move, the idea of a salary commission surfaced again.

On March 29, 1979, Meyer introduced the bill and it did not pass until this May. Thompson's recent moves for possible pay increases for individuals other than elected officials could move the idea of a salary commission forward in the Senate.

The formation of such a commission in the eyes of many would be a welcomed move. They look at the formation of such a group as a way to get the ever-controversial pay hikes out of the public arena. It could mean that legislators will no longer have to take a public stand to vote on pay hikes, which continually get them in trouble.

The pending legislation would form a 16-member commission. The members would be appointed by the legislative leaders, but lawmakers could not serve.

There have been no indications from legislators that the Senate might try to pass the bill in the veto session. But with Thompson apparently supporting the formation of such a panel it might give the pending legislation some impetus.

At the present time the proposed pay commission apparently would handle the pay for the constitutional officers, legislators and judges. But this could be amended to cover the cabinet officers as well.

Thompson maintains the first direct for cabinet officials can be justified because many of the top quality people serving in government may leave.

Fahner giving his all as attorney general

By JEFF BRODY

SPRINGFIELD—He's trying to make a name for himself as a man who was THE attorney general and who was named the best chief legal officer of any state in the country.

But Tyrone Fahner, 37, feels he can measure up. After he was appointed by Gov. James Thompson, his former boss in the Chicago U.S. attorney's office.

Fahner has reaffirmed the attorney general's role in two areas that his predecessor, William Scott, emphasized during his 11 years in office—environmental and consumer protection.

And, Fahner said, "We want to get his office moving as an arm of the criminal justice system. Stepping into Mr. Scott's shoes enhances the challenge of this job. Any attorney worth his salt wants to see that he can do it."

Fahner's challenge, however, is double-barreled. In addition to administering the office, Fahner pledged to Thompson that he would run for election to the office if appointed. Although he has helped with other statewide campaigns, he has never run for office himself.

"It's a big jump from being a private attorney to running for a statewide office," Fahner admits. And, judging from his appearance in the statehouse, he has fought and won several legal battles against the Earthline hazardous waste landfill.

Fahner quelled the fears of community residents that he may not be as committed as Scott to the fight, pledging to continue the state's strong support for their case.

Fahner's pledge was not made just out of deference to Scott or to Cody, who, as the state's chief attorney in the case, convinced the circuit and appellate courts to order the removal of the hazardous material buried there.

"It's fair to assume I'll have primary opposition, but I have two years to establish a record to run against," he said.

That's more than my opponent will have. If I can't prove I should be elected by the voters, I don't deserve to keep the job. I'm looking forward to the adventure."

Fahner served Thompson as chief of both the criminal and civil divisions and the official corruption sections in the upcoming vote session everyone would know because of his prior announcement.

CROSSWORDS

Cosentino backs loan programs

By RAY SERATI
SPRINGFIELD — State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino is still pumping state money deposits into two programs which he started last spring designed to help stimulate home building in urban areas and crop production for the rural areas of Illinois.
Under the two programs, Cosentino deposited state funds in financial institutions that in turn would loan the money back out. The programs covering home mortgages and crop production have been successful among those using the plan.
The farm loan program was to cover loans for fuel, fertilizer, seed and grain costs until the farmer could market his crops. The home mortgages were designed to help get the depressed home building industry started up again in Illinois. The money started going into the two programs in May and June.
The money was handled through banks or savings and loans firms. The state money came from the collection of various taxes and fees.
The program has been used widely throughout the state. Money for the home mortgage program seemed to be in a little more demand.

The home mortgage plan was designed mainly for those individuals who had started building a home but got caught when interest rates started soaring. Many were not completed. It was for these types of houses that the program was used.
The house was to be a one-family unit on which construction was started prior to Dec. 31, 1979 and it could not have been occupied or sold before that date.
A check with the treasurer's office shows that in DuPage County some $2.1 million has been deposited in eight institutions to cover 40 mortgages in the home mortgage plan. In Will County some $940,000 in deposits have been placed in six institutions covering 15 home mortgages. McHenry County has two institutions participating in the home mortgage plan and $852,000 has been deposited for 13 mortgages. Grundy County had $320,000 in deposits covering four mortgages and three institutions. In Kane County $162,000 was placed in two institutions to cover two mortgages.

The home mortgages program has been the most popular in the above counties. In other sections of downstate, the farm loan program proved to be popular.
Cosentino and his staff are currently looking over other programs in an effort to make more low-interest money available to residents.
INJURED IN CRASH
Cynthia Coghlan, 24, of 1670 Fourth St., Madison, suffered head, neck and back injuries at noon Friday in an auto collision and obtained emergency treatment at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She was released after X-rays were taken.
ARRESTED AT HOME
Jack L. Shelton, 60, of 2437 Wilson Ave. was charged with disorderly conduct at his home at 11:10 p.m. Thursday after allegedly throwing a telephone and pulling a relative's hair.

Farm displays Thursday

Thursday, Kiener Plaza in St. Louis will be the scene of the first major display of the Missouri Farm Bureau, Illinois Farm Bureau and KMOX's Holiday Harvest Program. The farmers from the St. Louis collar counties on both sides of the river are cooperating in this "harvest" for the less fortunate.
The program itself represents more than a harvest or help for the needy. It is the media of providing farmers from two states the opportunity to work with the news media and the consumers.

Additional information is available from the Madison County Farm Bureau at 1-656-5191.

CRASH DURING RAIN
Linda A. Lusciec, 26, suffered injuries at 4:05 p.m. Thursday when the front of her westbound auto collided with the right front of an eastbound tractor-trailer on rain-swept pavement at Edwardsville Road and Nameoki Road. She was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The truck driver, David Fors, 29, Aurora, was making a left turn.

Bill seeks federal curb on drunk driving

By ED ARMSTRONG
SPRINGFIELD

Some congressmen want the federal government to get involved in efforts to curb drunk driving. Under our governmental system there is no way the feds can directly act on drunk driving. Power to legislate and enforce laws regarding motor vehicle operations belongs to the states. So Congress turns to the purse-strings as a way to exert its will, as it has done on the 55 mph speed limit.

The congressmen introducing the anti-drunk driving bill would enforce the federal standards by requiring states which receive federal highway traffic safety funds to adopt those standards or a comparable term of community service and attendance at an alcohol treatment program for persons convicted of drunk driving. And they ask suspension of the driver's license for up to one year for a first conviction on charges of driving while intoxicated, plus revocation for at least one year for a repeat offense.

Perhaps this would force toughening of the attitude toward drunk drivers in some states, but I can't see that it would make much difference in Illinois.

In this state conviction on DWI charges brings automatic revocation of the driver's license for a year, a tougher stance than the bill in Congress would require. But the joker in the deck is that word "conviction." An extremely low percentage of those persons charged with DWI are convicted of the offense. Most cases are plea bargained. The DWI charges are dropped in favor of such charges as reckless or wrong lane usage. Then the accused pleads guilty to the lesser offense, and pays a fine but avoids having his driver's license revoked.

Why does this happen?

Because it is difficult to get a DWI conviction unless the state has a really airtight case.

This is in spite of the fact that Illinois has an "implied consent" law, which says that when an individual obtains a license to drive he implies that he will consent to a test for alcohol content in the blood if he is arrested for a traffic law violation and a police officer makes a proper request for such test. As a practical matter the "smart" drivers refuse to take the test. The worst that can happen as a result of refusal is having one's driver's license suspended. But the accused has a right to a hearing before a suspension of license, so a suspension is by no means automatic.

Without a test showing blood alcohol content, the prosecution has difficulty proving the driver was drunk. Often it boils down to the driver's word against the arresting officer's — one against one.

Faced with the prospect of spending a lot of time in court and still quite possibly losing the case, prosecutors understandably are often willing to reduce charges and accept a guilty plea that results in a modest fine, no jail time and no driver's license suspension.

In contrast with Congress' intent to require those convicted of DWI to spend at least 10 days in jail, some European countries sentence DWI convicts to years in prison. In the United States public attitudes mitigate against such severe sentences. Drunk driving just isn't regarded as a major offense, although car driving by intoxicated persons surely kills and maims far more persons than do armed robbers.

One reason is that the drunk driver isn't looked on as a criminal, because it's assumed he doesn't intend to hurt anyone. He may be using bad judgment, but he doesn't have bad motives.

Another is the view of the social drinker toward the DWI accused that "There but for the grace of God go I." Millions of such persons occasionally imbibe more than they should, then get behind the wheel to drive home. They are not even knowing that in case of an accident they could be charged with drunk driving.

When it happens to others, these people tend to be forgiving.

All the auto accident, fatality and injury figures tell us drunk driving is a serious problem in the United States. The families of accident victims indicate to us in human terms how tragic the results of such driving can be.

But the bill in Congress to crack down on drunk driving doesn't really represent much of a crackdown. And as long as present attitudes prevail, we can't expect significant progress in getting intoxicated drivers off the road.

Bar favors retention of are judges

By HILL WINTER
OF THE PRESS-Record

Whether to retain Circuit Judges Victor J. Mosele and John L. DeLaurenti may prove to be a relatively uneventful phase of the Nov. 4 election; both are favored, and failure to retain an incumbent judge is rare in Illinois.

But both are running hard, particularly Judge Mosele. At one time during the summer it appeared that lawyers might make a concerted effort to defeat him, but this possibility now is said to have lessened.

The Tri-City Bar Association on Thursday night recommended retention of Mosele, DeLaurenti, Joseph H. Goldenbergh of Belleville and Circuit Judge Moses W. Harrison of Collinsville. Judge Harrison is serving as an appointed appellate judge and is running as a Democrat opposed for appellate judge, in addition to seeking non-partisan circuit judge reelection.

Both Mosele and DeLaurenti need a 60 percent favorable vote in non-partisan balloting to earn six-year court terms. Mosele serves Madison County and DeLaurenti serves Bond County, but both are on the ballot throughout the two-county Third Judicial Circuit.

Mosele, 55, of Alton was appointed by the Illinois Supreme Court Dec. 4, 1972, to fill the circuit judgeship formerly held by Michael Kinney, who retired.

He won a full term in the same position in 1974, capturing a contested primary and then running unopposed in the general election. Mosele was elected by fellow circuit judges as the chief judge of the Third Circuit for the July 1977-June 1978 year.

Graduating from Staunton High School and Washington University, he earned the juris doctor degree from the Washington U. Law School in 1951 and was admitted to the practice of law in Illinois and Missouri in 1952. He practiced law in Alton and East Alton from 1953 until being named a judge in 1972.

Mosele and his wife, June, have a daughter, Rebecca, 22. A past president of the Madison County Bar Association, he was licensed to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Mosele was in the Army Infantry for two years, 1943-45, being assigned to the Pacific theater and advancing to the rank of technical sergeant, and is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Judge DeLaurenti, 47, has been the resident circuit judge in Greenville since 1972, handling all types of civil and criminal cases. He and his wife and four children reside on and operate a farm near Pocahontas.

Long associated with conservation activities, he conducted a private law practice and then served as Bond County's attorney in 1968-72. He is the former staff counsel of Germania Federal Savings and

VICTOR MOSELE

Loan. His active service in the Air Force was as a pilot and navigator; at present he is a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

DeLaurenti has held an appointment in the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He also is a former laborer in Local 877 of Peabody, Ill. While he was county's chief prosecutor, he was on the managing board of the Illinois State's Attorney Association. He served on the board of directors of the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission until resigning in 1977.

During his service in Bond County, he also has presided over a wide variety of cases in Madison County, on special assignments.

The Illinois State Bar Association last week announced it has recommended for retention Mosele (79.92 summary score), DeLaurenti (84.87), Goldenbergh (90.10, highly recommended), Harrison (84.63) for appellate judge (former Moran position), and Circuit Judge A. J. Matosian (79.02), the latter running unopposed as a Democrat.

The Illinois Bar does not recommend for the Eberspacher appellate judge position Democrat Robert B. Mays of East St. Louis; Mays received a rating of 46.12.

The county group did not take a new poll of lawyers for Republican Thomas Welch, Collinsville, who was chosen by his party after the primary election to run against Mays.

Anderson, keeping faith

BY ROBERT ESTILL
WASHINGTON

Rep. John Anderson, apparently adjusting to the spoils role he so long disclaimed, finds Ronald Reagan not as "sacred" in the fall as he did last spring. To be sure, the independent presidential candidate still maintains a vote for Anderson is a vote for Reagan — and not a vote for Carter and his advisers insist.

But the Illinois congressman is focusing his fire on Carter and even coming to Reagan's defense, as he did recently when he rapped as "totally outrageous" and a "low level" campaign tactic Carter's suggestion that Reagan would divide Jews from Christians.

Anderson, who has said more than once he would not be in the race just to play the spoiler, now says he is undisturbed by the possibility of his continued presence could boost Reagan's election prospects.

Michael MacLeod, Anderson's campaign manager and treasurer, does not dispute that.

Why does Anderson remain in the race when the polls suggest he will not win and a paucity of funds leaves him unable to buy the kind of national television advertising needed to compete effectively?

Cynics might suggest that Anderson wants to mend his GOP fences by helping Reagan and possibly land some federal post if the Californian wins the White House.

It borders on the ludicrous to think Anderson would have abandoned a safe, if un-putate that is a marked departure from the stance Anderson has maintained since he launched his independent candidacy April 24.

But MacLeod suggests it is not so much a change of heart by Anderson as it is changes in his rivals — or at least in the public perceptions of them.

"First of all, Reagan is not as scary as he used to be for fear of some, including us," MacLeod said.

"I think he (Reagan) has moderated his views. He has backed off some — but not all — of the odious plank in the Republican platform. He has even slightly moderated his views about tax cuts."

"And secondly, Carter has become very sharply etched in the minds of many people as being a very mean, narrow-minded, political operator who will stop at nothing to be re-elected."

"Given that kind of choice, the system if you will, is going to be spoiled no matter who gets elected if the choice is simply between Carter and Reagan."

Why does Anderson remain in the race when the polls suggest he will not win and a paucity of funds leaves him unable to buy the kind of national television advertising needed to compete effectively?

Cynics might suggest that Anderson wants to mend his GOP fences by helping Reagan and possibly land some federal post if the Californian wins the White House.

It borders on the ludicrous to think Anderson would have abandoned a safe, if unchallenging, congressional role to embark on such an arduous campaign for such a limited goal.

And it is difficult to picture Anderson seeking or being accepted for any significant position in a Reagan administration despite Reagan's having taken on former rival George Bush as his running mate.

One thing to add Bush to the ticket to please GOP moderates. It would thoroughly rile conservatives to offer any meaningful role to the more liberal Anderson, even if he does help Reagan win election. Stranger deals have been cut, but this one seems unlikely.

Clearly, it would be far less than he started out to accomplish. But he may have to settle for it. After 20 years in Congress, settling for something less should be nothing new to him.

BURGLAR TAKES GUNS

A burglar took jewelry and two .38 caliber revolvers and attempted to remove a safe from the home of John Koratowski, 1421 Fifth St., Madison, Friday evening.

TWO CHARGES FILED

Halted by Madison County sheriff deputies at 4 p.m. Friday on Maryville Road at Blue Spruce Court, Robert Matyas, 17, of 509 Lakeview Drive, was charged with possessing cannabis and with driving a car having a loud muffler.

HOME BURGLARIZED

A burglar took blankets and a stereo, valued at a total of $390, from the home of Rysalyn Gray, 11 Hill Street, Eagle Park, Saturday evening.

MAN STARRED TWICE

Joe Becker, 2500 Washington Ave., was stabbed twice with a screwdriver at his apartment at 3:40 a.m. Sunday. He obtained five stitches to close a wound on his left hand and three stitches for a cut on the chin.

News notes

Kenneth C. Pearl, 68, of Bloomington, was held in the Madison County jail during the weekend after being charged Friday with unlawful possession of a rifle and gambling equipment.

Illegal transportation of liquor and an invalid vehicle registration. Bond was set at $7,500. Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies were asked to be on alert for the man.

Man had told Springfield police someone might try to kill Ronald Reagan during the campaigning Friday and Saturday in Illinois and Missouri. Pearl was arrested early Friday afternoon at a truck stop near Troy.

Drew Karandjeff will be installed as president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Bonnie Goldenbergh as president of the Women's Division at the dinner meeting Thursday evening at Sunset Hills Country Club. Guest speaker will be Edward J. Schuck, chairman of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

Bi-State Transit System bus drivers and mechanics last week rejected 1,171 to 355, a three-year contract proposal, saying it would have reduced the effect of cost-of-living pay adjustments.

Congressman Melvin Price has received $13,755 and spent $9,148 in his campaign this year. His Nov. 4 opponent, Ronald Davinroy, has received $12,404 contributions and expended $13,557. Price has declined to attend after initially accepting an invitation to participate in a candidate forum.

Long associated with conservation activities, he conducted a private law practice and then served as Bond County's attorney in 1968-72. He is the former staff counsel of Germania Federal Savings and

An open house at GCHS South will begin at 7 tonight with music and information in the auditorium, followed by visitation of classrooms from 7:30 to 8:30.

The American Civil Liberties Union gives Congress. Melvin Price a 33 percent rating on his votes related to ACLU issues.

The Illinois Federation of Teachers has endorsed for re-election State Representatives Sam Wolf and Jim McFike. The Angry Taxpayers Action Committee has endorsed Joseph Peano of Palmyra City in the 56th District.

Beavin of Harding Boulevard, Jerry Bladick, 16, of 3112 Kirkpatrick Homes was charged with battery at 4:50 p.m. Thursday. He allegedly hit her in the mouth, head and stomach at an apartment at 3404 Kirkpatrick. Bladick was fined $115 at a hearing Friday afternoon.

ARREST FOR BATTERY. On a complaint by Janice, 32, of 2823 Warren Ave., 32, of 2823 Warren Ave., who also fell to the ground, was struck in the head with a two-by-four piece of lumber. He was admitted with back and head injuries and his condition is reported as stable. The men work for Stanley Hanks Painting Co.

STRIKES SIGN, TREE. James J. Reid III, 20, of Phoenix, Ariz., escaped apparent injury during rain at 5:25 p.m. Thursday when his eastbound pickup truck skidded sideways and then spun around on Fehling Road between Oregon Avenue and Yale Drive. The truck flattened a city sign (limit and no parking) and struck a tree in Wilson Park.

HURT AT CROSSING. North St. Ducky Jr., 37, of 2501 Washington Ave., sustained injuries while his northbound car was halted for a train on Missouri Avenue near the A. O. Smith Corp. at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The front of a hit-and-run auto struck the rear of his vehicle.

Two hurt in scaffold fall. A father-and-son team of painters injured at St. Elizabeth Medical Center with injuries sustained last week in a fall from scaffolding at Air Products Co., 23rd and Monroe Streets.

Daniel Kelley, Sr., 55, of 2112 Buxton, fell from a 30-foot from the scaffold and suffered abrasions to the face, head and right shoulder. He was admitted to the medical center's intensive care unit.

His son, Dennis Kelley Sr., 32, of 2823 Warren Ave., who also fell to the ground, was struck in the head with a two-by-four piece of lumber. He was admitted with back and head injuries and his condition is reported as stable. The men work for Stanley Hanks Painting Co.

TRAFFIC INJURIES. Christine Hubert, 19, Glen Carbon, received right knee lacerations in an auto accident and Paula Johnson, 32, Collinsville, suffered head pains and left leg bruises in a two-car pileup. They were treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 8:35 p.m. Friday and then released.

BUSINESS BURGLARIZED. The Pontoon Beach Dairy Queen, 3901 Pontoon Road, was burglarized, Pontoon Beach police discovered at 8:15 a.m. Sunday. A stereo system and an undetermined amount of cash were taken. Police were on routine patrol when they discovered a window broken, which is a possible point of entry.

TIRE THEFT CHARGE. Steven M. Rippey, 17, of 3030 Circle Drive, was charged at 12:15 p.m. Friday with burglary in connection with the theft at 6:20 p.m. Thursday of two tires and wheels from a new 1981 truck on a railroad car at the Norfolk & Western Railway siding near the 25th Street crossing.

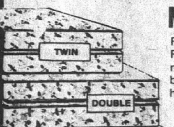

HITS PHONE POLE. Mary L. Skinner, 32, of 1928 Adams St., was injured Thursday when the front of her auto struck an Illinois Bell Telephone Co. post on 20th Street near the alley between Cleveland and Benton Streets.

Turkey time is back again and tradition is here to stay!

The delights of gathering together include the best in family dining. This is roast turkey with distinctive stuffing and a cranberry accompaniment that shimmers. A very special coffee adds a special holiday note.

VANDERMINT DUTCH COFFEE

1½ oz. Vandermint
Hot coffee
Whipped cream

Pour Vandermint into a tall cup or glass mug; fill with coffee and garnish with whipped cream.

Makes 1 serving.

ROAST TURKEY WITH SAVORY FRUIT STUFFING

10 lb. turkey, ready to stuff
1 lb. pork sausage
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 large can apricots,
chopped and drained
(reserve the liquid)
½ cup Leroux Triple Sec
1½ bags (7-oz. size) seasoned bread cubes for stuffing

Brown sausage, onion and garlic; toss with apricots, Leroux Triple Sec and bread cubes.

Add reserved apricot liquid, as needed, to moisten mixture. Stuff the turkey and roast, uncovered, at 325°F. for 4 hours or until done.

Baste with butter, as needed. Serves 6.

CRANBERRY-FRUIT MOLD

½ cup orange juice
2 envelopes unflavored
gelatine
2 cups cranberry juice
1 cup chopped orange sections
1½ cups chopped pared apples
¾ cup broken walnuts
3 tablespoons Leroux
Fraise de Bois

In a small bowl, soften the gelatine in the orange juice for five minutes.

Place the bowl in a pan of simmering water and heat until the gelatine is melted. Combine with all other ingredients.

Spoon into 6 one-cup molds for individual servings and place in refrigerator until set. Unmold onto lettuce leaves. Makes six servings.

THIS FAMILY THANKSGIVING DINNER features turkey with savory apricot stuffing and a delicate cranberry-fruit mold. For after dinner, it's Vandermint Dutch Coffee.

PRESS-RECORD/HERALD

Only A Movie
SARASOTA, Fla.—Movie producers needed a bridge to blow up. They found one just east of here.

The staged explosion scene for the movie was done with the cooperation of the Florida Department of Transportation on an unfinished section of Interstate 75. The movie company paid more than $500,000 to have the bridge re-built; part of the film's $19 million production budget.

OCTOBER 20, 1980 A7

Name of the film? "Honky Tonk Freeway."†

Swimming Inc.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.

—Don't let the new name of United States Swimming, Inc. confuse you. All the people involved are mainly the same as those who worked so hard for "swimming" when it was administered by the AAU.

This year the sport has its own governing body, for the first time, its new name and new logo. It involves athletes, coaches, officials and volunteers too, with more than 150,000 members. Swimming is considered the most popular sport in the U.S., when counting the number of people who participate during a year, said Ray Essick, administrator for U.S. Swimming.†
